DIRECTED BY: Martin Scorsese

Based on the book by Jake La Motta with Joseph

RATING: R

Raging Bull is the powerful story of prizefighter Jake La Motta, and his constant battles, in and out of the ring. Not a typical "boxing picture," but a vivid character portrait, this film marks the fourth collaboration between director Martin Scorsese and actor Robert De Niro, who won a well-deserved Academy Award for his performance as La Motta. Only an actor of De Niro's force and range could capture the essence of a man who battled his way through life—from his earliest years on the streets of the Bronx through a controversial ring career and a stormy marriage. Only a director of Scorsese's perceptions could make this story so rich and fascinating. Raging Bull is a knockout, in every way.

CAST: Sean Connery, Lotte Lenya, Robert Shaw, Bernard Lee, Daniela Bianchi

PRODUCED BY: Harry Saltzman and Albert R. Broccoli

SCREENPLAY BY: Richard Maibaum

DIRECTED BY: Terence Young

Here is the second James Bond film adventure—and one that ranks high on the list of favorites with Bond fans around the world. Sean Connery is at his best as the unflappable secret agent 007, matching wits (and fists) with a gallery of villains you won't soon forget: Rosa Klebb (Lotte Lenya), the Spectre agent who conceals a poisoned blade in the toe of her shoe... Red Grant (Robert Shaw), who corners Bond in a dimly lit railway compartment for one of the deadliest fistfights ever filmed...and seductive Tatiana Romanova (Daniela Bianchi), a Russian spy whose charms are hard to resist. Ian Fleming's tongue-in-cheek thriller is stylishly realized.

Neil Simon's hilarious Broadway comedy was the basis for this hit movie starring the incomparable team of Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau. Lemmon and Matthau work hand-in-glove no matter what the occasion—and the occasion here is a look at two opposites trying to room together after divorce. Jack Lemmon plays Felix Unger, the fuss-budget who is obsessed with neatness, and Walter Matthau is Oscar Madison, the sportswriter whose living habits resemble those of a teenaged orangutan. Simon's original script (which inspired the later TV series) is brimming with wonderful set-pieces. No wonder The Odd Couple has become a modern comedy classic.

DIRECTED BY: John Huston

No one who has seen The African Queen can ever quite forget it. In a recent Los Angeles Times survey, readers voted it their all-time favorite movie, and it isn't hard to see why: as the "odd couple" forced to battle the elements, the enemy, and each other during an eventful boat ride, Katharine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart are simply irresistible. How their mutual animosity evaporates into respect and then love is the wonder of John Huston's film, which the director co-authored with James Agee. Among its many distinctions, The African Queen won Bogart his only Academy Award, for an unforgettable performance as Charlie Allnut.

The creative comic genius of Mel Brooks is back in full force in History of the World, Part I, a satirical and somewhat unlikely version of world history. Brooks tickles the funnybone as a sarcastic Moses, as a stand-up comic performing before Emperor Nero in the original Caesar's Palace, as an amorous King Louis XVI and as Torquemada, the Grand Inquisitor of the Spanish Inquisition. The never-ending one-liners and sight gags will leave you in hysterical convulsions.

Aided and abetted by comic greats, Mel Brooks once again, has made another funny film, adding to his long list of accomplishments.

MUSIC BY: Charles Chaplin

City Lights is universally regarded as one of the greatest films ever made. And, in a career filled with incredible achievements, it is also considered to be Charlie Chaplin's masterpiece. Those are strong statements, but City Lights lives up to its reputation. The story of a penniless Tramp befriending a blind flower girl, and determining to raise the money for a sight-restoring operation, allows Chaplin to take full reign over our emotions. He can make us laugh, sigh, and cry...all within a span of minutes. The final sequence of City Lights is one of the most poignant ever put on film—yet there are moments in City Lights as funny as Chaplin ever did. It's a movie to win your heart—and a very special example of silent-film artistry that speaks out to audiences more than half a century after its creation.

PRODUCED BY: Dino De Laurentiis

SCREENPLAY BY: Terry Southern

DIRECTED BY: Roger Vadim

Blast off into the 41st century with Jane Fonda as the intrepid outer-space adventuress Barbarella! Directed by Ms. Fonda's then-husband Roger Vadim, Barbarella is a free-wheeling adaptation of the popular French adult comic-strip, which combines equal doses of fantasy, humor, and sex. Our heroine is a lady astronaut who travels to the planet Lythion in search of an evil inventor whose new weapon threatens to shatter the peace of the Galaxy. Her quest involves her in many strange adventures, and brings her into contact with such characters as the blind angel Pygar (John Phillip Law), the kindly Professor Ping (Marcel Marceau), the lusty revolutionary Dildano (David Hemmings), and the infamous Black Queen (Anita Pallenberg). It's wild, erotic, and original—a unique space saga driven by down-to-earth emotions, and highlighted by Jane Fonda's sexy, tongue-in-cheek performance.

One of the most controversial movies of its day, Death Wish remains a provocative as well as exciting essay on violence in today's society. Charles Bronson stars as Paul Kersey, a quiet sensitive man who changes overnight into a raging vigilante. After three punks break into his New York apartment murdering his wife and turning his daughter into a catatonic, Kersey stalks the streets of the city, shooting down every criminal he can find. Even though the crime rate immediately declines, the question is, can this kind of action be justified? This moral issue haunts viewers of the film just as it does the police in the film who are saddled with the task of bringing Kersey to justice. See the film and decide for yourself.

Academy Award winner as Best Picture of the Year, this remains one of the all-time favorites among movie fans. Humphrey Bogart is Rick, who runs the cafe that bears his name, a focal point for intrigue and a way-station for those trying to escape from Europe during Nazi occupation. Ingrid Bergman is Ilsa, Rick's old love who walks into Rick's Cafe on the arm of her husband, Victor (Paul Henreid), an underground resistance leader. Ilsa pleads with Rick to use his influence to help her escape to Lisbon with Victor. Rick is resentful of Ilsa's earlier betrayal, but soon finds himself in love with her once again. The dilemma of this lover's triangle isn't resolved until the final harrowing minutes at the fog-shrouded Casablanca Airport. The impressive international cast includes Claude Rains, Conrad Veidt, Sidney Greenstreet, Peter Lorre and Dooley Wilson as Sam the piano player, who plays "As Time Goes By."

CAST: Gene Kelly, Donald O'Connor, Debbie Reynolds

PRODUCED BY: Arthur Freed

STORY AND SCREENPLAY BY:
Betty Comden and Adolph Green

DIRECTED BY: Gene Kelly and Stanley Donen

This exhilarating masterpiece delightfully recalls the transition from silent films to talkies during the Roaring Twenties. Gene Kelly and Donald O'Connor play a couple of vaudeville song-and-dance men who go to Hollywood to break into the movies. Kelly becomes a romantic leading man, forced to work with beautiful Jean Hagen, who plays a dumb blonde. Meanwhile, he meets and falls in love with a young singer and dancer (Debbie Reynolds), who becomes the dubbed voice of Hagen. Eventually, Reynolds falls in love with Kelly. Among the highlights are such favorite songs as "You Were Meant For Me" and the title song. Of special interest is a dazzling 15-minute "Broadway Melody Ballet" danced by Kelly, Cyd Charisse and a large chorus ensemble.

Based on the novel by Erich Segal

Based on Erich Segal's best-selling novel, this is a spirited, humorous and touching story of young love. Ryan O'Neal plays Oliver Barrett IV, a Harvard law student from a well-established, wealthy family. Ali MacGraw is Jenny, a salty-tongued music major from an Italian background. Though their first meeting is punctuated with sarcastic barbs and insults, they soon fall in love. This true love endures despite parental disapproval from Oliver's father (Ray Milland), as well as financial hard times. But the true test comes tragically when Jenny is stricken with a fatal disease. Oliver is overwhelmed, Jenny is courageous, and there wasn't a dry eye in the house when this picture played to packed theatres. Very effective is Francis Lai's Oscar-winning score.

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA

CAST: The Marx Brothers, (Groucho, Chico, Harpo), Kitty Carlisle
SCREENPLAY BY: George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind
DIRECTED BY: Sam Wood

The Marx Brothers, Groucho, Chico and Harpo, become involved in the fashionable world of opera in what many consider to be the funniest motion picture ever made. The story begins in Italy, where Groucho is having trouble convincing the wealthy Mrs. Claypool (Margaret Dumont) that he is in love with her, not her money. Since she is a patron of the opera, Groucho becomes her business manager and joins her on an ocean liner for a crossing to New York for an opening. It is during this crossing that the classic stateroom scene takes place, where close to 30 assorted revelers join the Marx Brothers in a tiny cabin. Once in New York, Groucho is fired, along with a young lady friend who was to sing in the opera. To get even, Groucho, Chico and Harpo sabotage the opera, making a complete shambles of the stage, the orchestra pit and Mrs. Claypool. The hilarious pranks pay off and all ends happily.

PATTON

CAST: George C. Scott, Karl Malden

PRODUCED BY: Frank McCarthy

SCREENPLAY BY: Francis Ford Coppola and Edmund H. North

DIRECTED BY: Franklin J. Schaffner

George C. Scott gives his Academy-Award winning performance as General George S. Patton, Jr., one of the most brilliant, controversial and legendary leaders in military history. The film begins with the striking and shocking "pep talk" that Patton delivers from a stage with an enormous American flag. We follow the tough General from the Africa campaigns to the Normandy invasion, as he relentlessly leads his men from victory to victory. But his thorny insubordination and violent temper often get in the way, and, more than once, he is relieved of his command. Scott is wonderful as the foul-mouthed, egotistical General whose headstrong ways make him a constant source of irritation to Generals Eisenhower and Montgomery. And Karl Malden plays General Omar Bradley, once a Patton subordinate but later his superior. This is a spectacular production about a fascinating man who believed that in war man achieves his greatest glory.

THE LONGEST DAY

CAST: 42 International stars including: John Wayne, Robert Mitchum, William Holden and Robert Ryan

PRODUCED BY: Darryl F. Zanuck

Based on the book by Cornelius Ryan

Darryl F. Zanuck's production of Cornelius Ryan's best-selling book is a realistic, documentary-style recreation of the Allied invasion of German-occupied France in June 1944. The tensions, the miscalculations, the glory and the tragedy associated with D-Day are vividly experienced from many points of view. We follow the efforts of French resistance fighters at Normandy, we're privy to the tactical planning of both Allied and German generals, we see the diversionary and sabotage effects of American paratroopers, and we are witness to the fierce, bloody fighting of the victorious G.I.s on Omaha Beach. Making the picture a true super-spectacle is an enormous international cast that includes Henry Fonda, Robert Mitchum, John Wayne, Robert Ryan, Richard Burton, Sean Connery, Rod Steiger, and Paul Anka (who, incidentally, wrote the stirring theme song). This original epic won Academy Awards for best black and white cinematography and for special effects.

CAST: Diane Keaton, Tuesday Weld, William Atherton, Richard Kiley, Richard Gere

PRODUCED BY: Freddie Fields

SCREENPLAY BY: Richard Brooks

DIRECTED BY: Richard Brooks

Based on the novel by Judith Rossner

Set against the frenzied world of dope, singles bars and discos, this is the searing story of a young woman trying to break away from her family and establish her own identity. Academy Award winner Diane Keaton plays Theresa Dunn, who during the day teaches children in a school for the deaf. At night, Theresa cruises the singles bars and discos, picks up men indiscriminately and takes them home. This is in stark contrast to her lower middle class Catholic upbringing, and is as upsetting to her father (Fritz Weaver) as it is intriguing to her sister (Tuesday Weld). With the throbbing disco beat of many hit songs in the background, Theresa makes her way from one man to the next, encountering Richard Gere along the way. Ultimately, and fatally, she picks up a disturbed and violent partner who viciously ends her odyssey in a shattering climax.

SHANE

CAST: Alan Ladd, Jean Arthur, Van Heflin, Brandon De Wilde, Jack Palance

PRODUCED BY: George Stevens

DIRECTED BY: George Stevens

SCREENPLAY BY: A.B. Guthrie, Jr.

This classic American western features the breathtaking beauty of the mountains of Wyoming as a background for the age-old struggle of farmers against ranchers. Van Heflin and Jean Arthur are trying to stake out a life for themselves by farming land they rightfully own. Their lives are imperiled by the threats of a local land baron, when Shane (Alan Ladd) drifts into the scene. He agrees to help them with the farming and, more importantly, helps defend them against the hostile ranchers with his prowess as a gunfighter. Brandon De Wilde plays the young boy, Joey, who idolizes Shane as the embodiment of courage and heroism. The final confrontation with hired gun Jack Palance and Shane is a towering moment in film history. Beautifully photographed and brilliantly acted, "Shane" is truly a mythic and moving western masterpiece.

Tatum O'Neal became the youngest actress ever to win the Academy Award for her performance as the tough-minded, wise-cracking little charmer, Addie Pray, in this wonderful period piece about con artists. Tatum's real life father, Ryan, plays Moses Pray, who is saddled with Addie while he travels through Kansas, conning newly-made widows into buying deluxe Bibles. Addie insists that Moses owes her $200 and suspects that he is her real father: Moses finds that Addie is an indispensable assistant when it comes to charming old ladies out of their money, but things get sour when he begins to squander their money on a cheap carnival dancer, Trixie Delight (Madeline Kahn). Addie contrives a little scheme to make Moses leave Trixie, but she cannot help him escape a brutal beating from a bootlegging sheriff, who takes his last $200. Moses finally delivers Addie to her aunt in Missouri, but she runs away and catches Moses once again. After all, she insists, he still owes her the $200.

LADY SINGS THE BLUES

CAST: Diana Ross, Billy Dee Williams, Richard Pryor

PRODUCED BY: Jay Weston and James S. White

SCREENPLAY BY: Terence McCloy, Chris Clark, Suzanne de Passe

DIRECTED BY: Sidney J. Furie

Diana Ross gives an unforgettable performance as jazz singer Billie Holiday in this extraordinary movie that captures the spirit of the 30's. This elaborate production begins with Billie as a teenager working as a maid in a Baltimore brothel where she first heard the blues. The young Billie made it to New York, working as a maid, a hooker, and, ultimately, as a struggling singer in a white band. It was on her grueling tours of the segregated South, with its physical exhaustion and emotional stress, that Billie began her unending battle with drugs. Her boyfriend (Billy Dee Williams) tries to help her fight her addiction, but it is only after the death of her mother that Billie voluntarily enters a sanitarium for a cure. When she is arrested during her treatment, she is unable to get a permit to work in New York clubs, so her agent sets up her historic concert at Carnegie Hall (the first ever by a jazz singer).

HUD

CAST: Paul Newman, Melvyn Douglas, Patricia Neal, Brandon de Wilde

PRODUCED BY: Martin Ritt and Irving Ravetch

SCREENPLAY BY: Irving Ravetch and Harriet Frank, Jr.

DIRECTED BY: Martin Ritt

Paul Newman is Hud Bannon in this powerful contemporary drama about a family of Texas ranchers. Hud finds himself constantly at odds with his highly-principled father, Homer (Melvyn Douglas), who disapproves of Hud's womanizing, hard drinking and general arrogance. Alma (Patricia Neal) is the worldly-wise housekeeper who spurns Hud's crude advances but is attracted to him anyway. Lon (Brandon de Wilde) is Hud's nephew, who idolizes his hard-living uncle until he discovers his true character. When Lon interrupts Hud's attempted rape of Alma, everyone sees Hud for the selfish opportunist he is. Homer dies of a heart attack, Alma catches a bus out of town, and Lon walks away from the ranch to start life on his own. Hud, left totally alone at the ranch, just opens a can of beer.

HIGH NOON

CAST: Gary Cooper, Grace Kelly, Thomas Mitchell, Lloyd Bridges

PRODUCED BY: Stanley Kramer

SCREENPLAY BY: Carl Foreman

DIRECTED BY: Fred Zinnemann

MUSIC COMPOSED AND DIRECTED BY: Dimitri Tiomkin

Gary Cooper won his second Academy Award for his performance as Marshal Will Kane in this classic American western. On his last official day as a law man, Kane is getting married to Amy (Grace Kelly), a Quaker. Before the service is completed, they learn that Frank Miller is coming to town on the noon train to seek revenge on Kane, who had sent him to prison for murder five years earlier. Despite Amy's pleas, Kane is determined to stay on as Marshal and stand up to Miller. In the final, violent confrontation with Miller and his three henchmen (among them Lee Van Cleef), Kane must face the killers alone. Set to the haunting ballad, "Do Not Forsake Me Oh My Darlin'," this film is much more than an action-filled western, as it deals tellingly with the theme of moral responsibility.

MOVIE, MOVIE

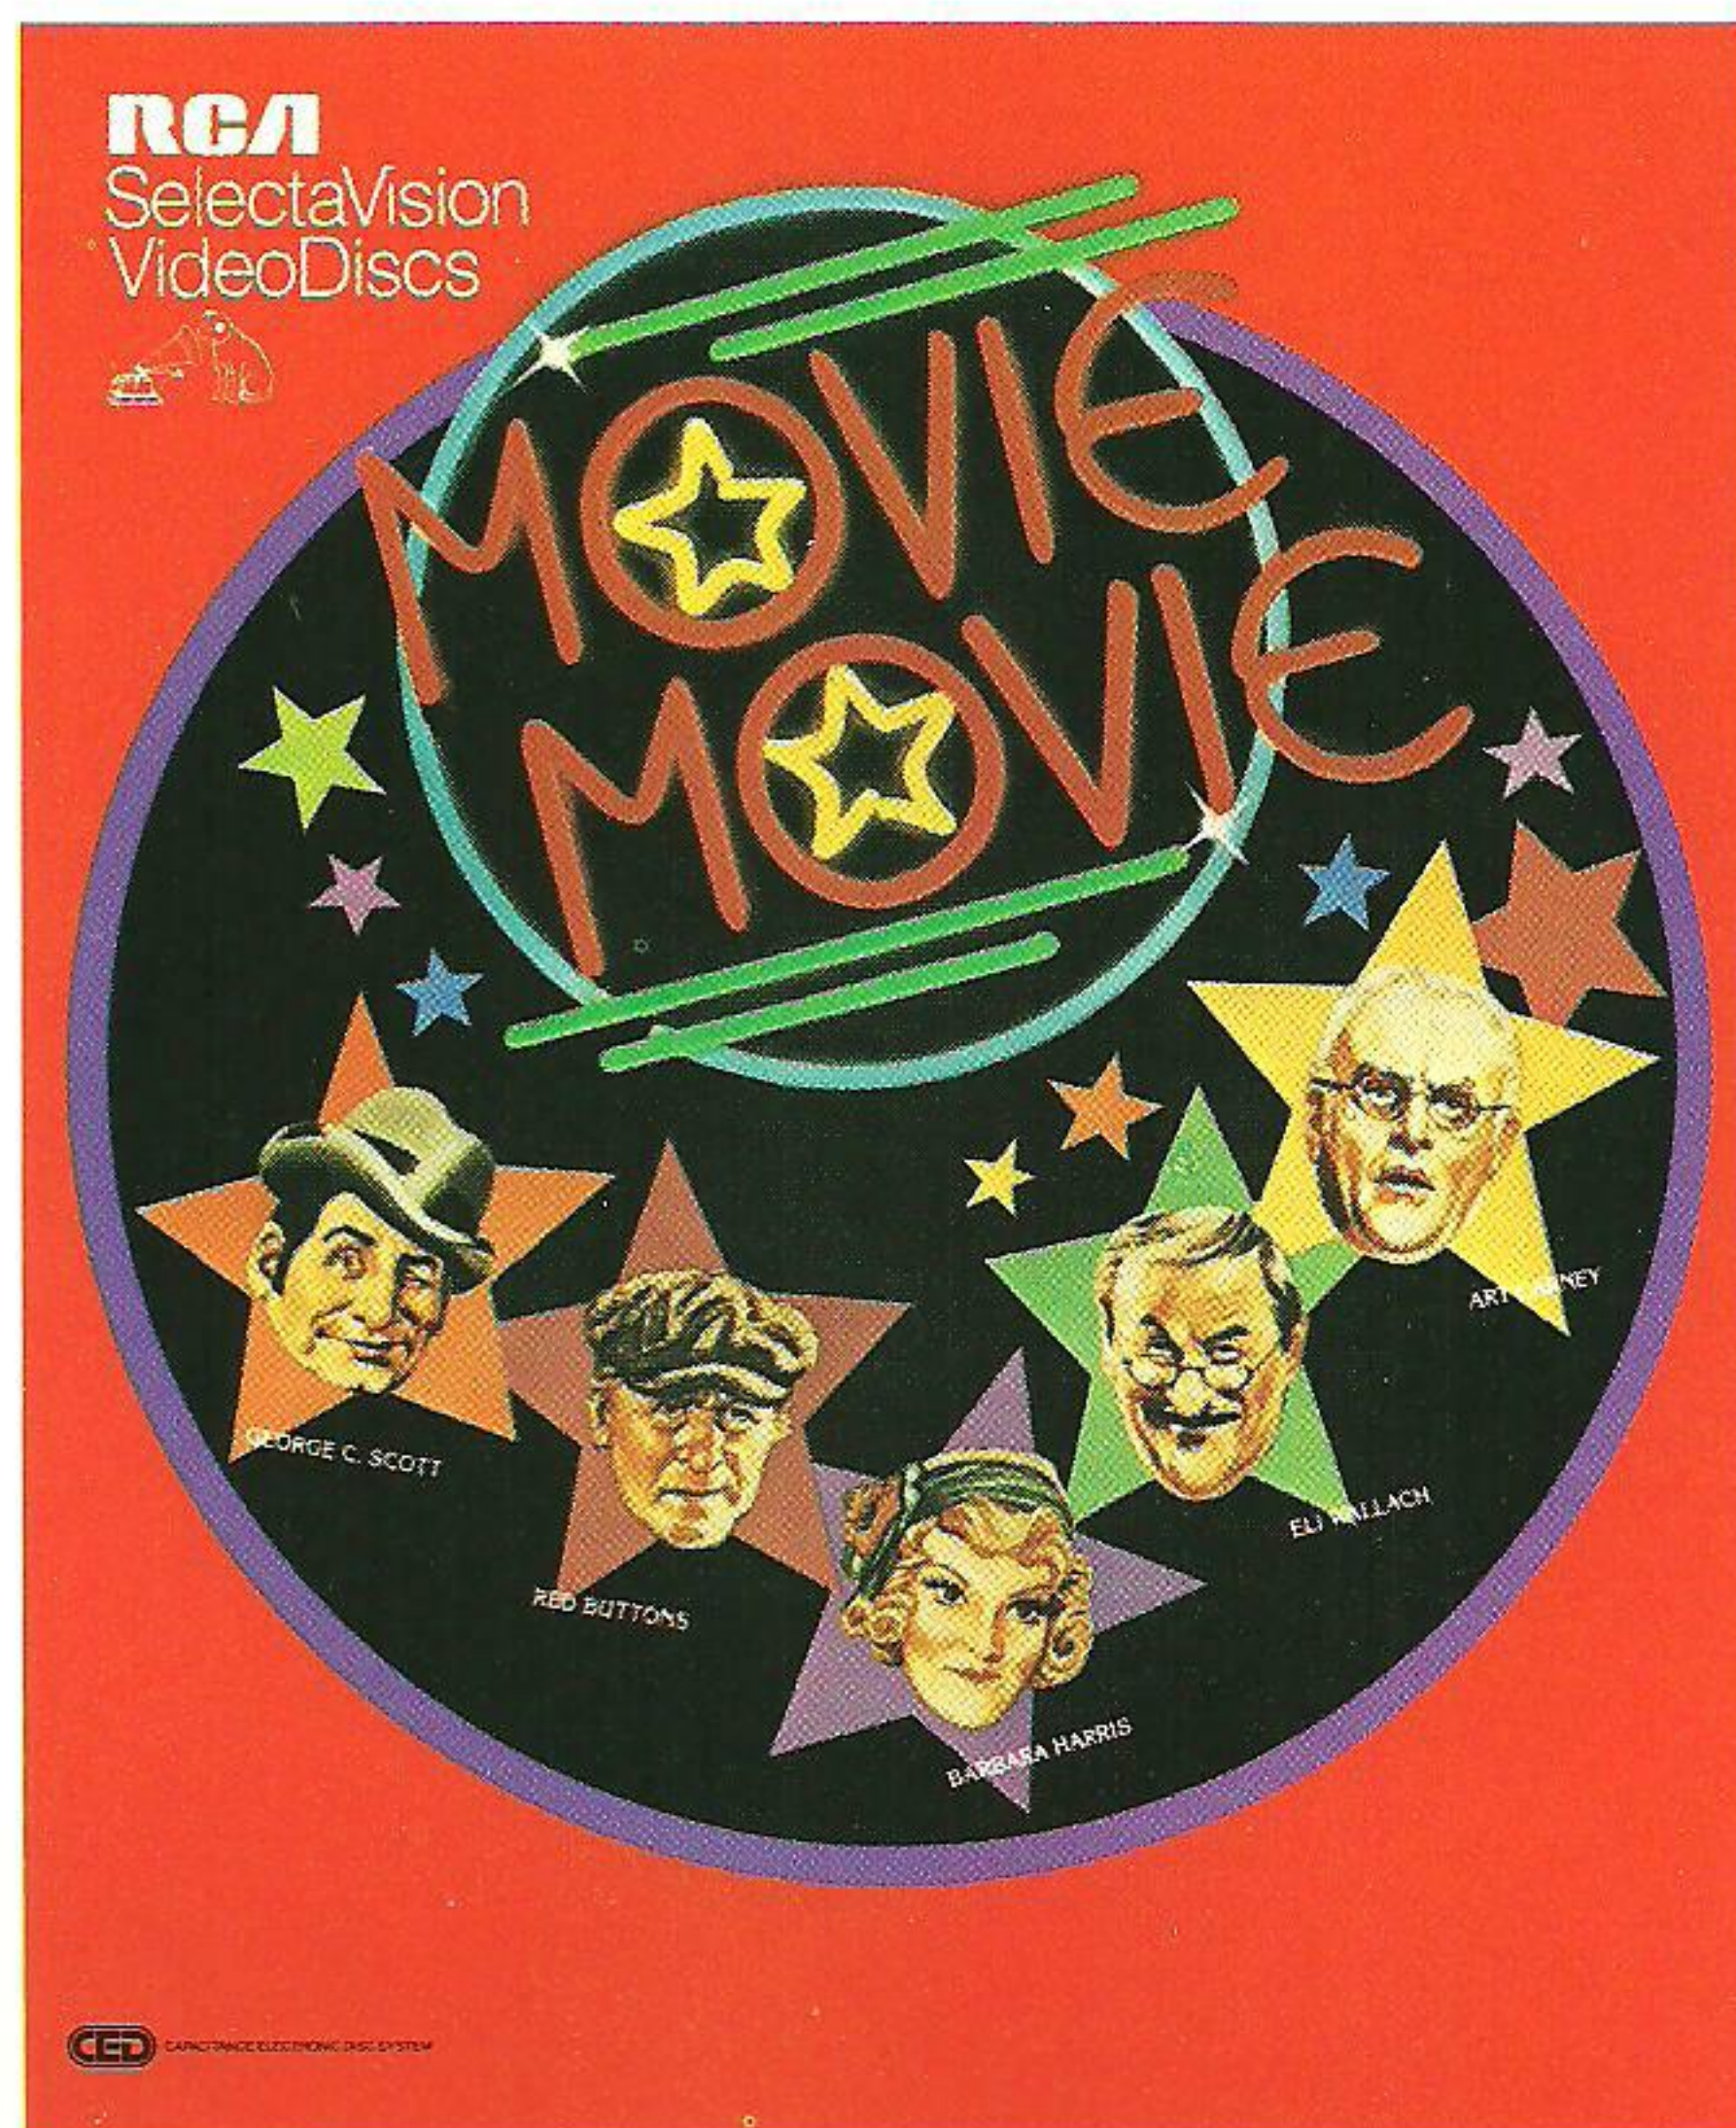

CAST: George C. Scott, Trish Van Devere, Barbara Harris, Red Buttons, Barry Bostwick, Ann Reinking, Art Carney, Eli Wallach

PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY: Stanley Donen

WRITTEN BY: Larry Gelbart and Sheldon Keller

George C. Scott stars in every segment of this original entertainment, which includes two complete movies, a newsreel and previews of coming attractions, as they may have appeared in the '30s. The first feature is "Dynamite Hands," in which a young immigrant boxer must win a big fight in order to earn money for his sister, who is going blind. Despite the urging from a crooked fight promoter (Scott) to throw the bout, our hero comes through with flying colors, helped considerably by a loyal trainer played by Red Buttons. The second feature, "Baxter's Beauties of 1933," is a show business saga, full of the kind of large scale singing and dancing for which director Stanley Donen is so famous. Here, Scott plays Spats Baxter, who must overcome all kinds of professional calamities and personal problems to make the show go on.

THE THING

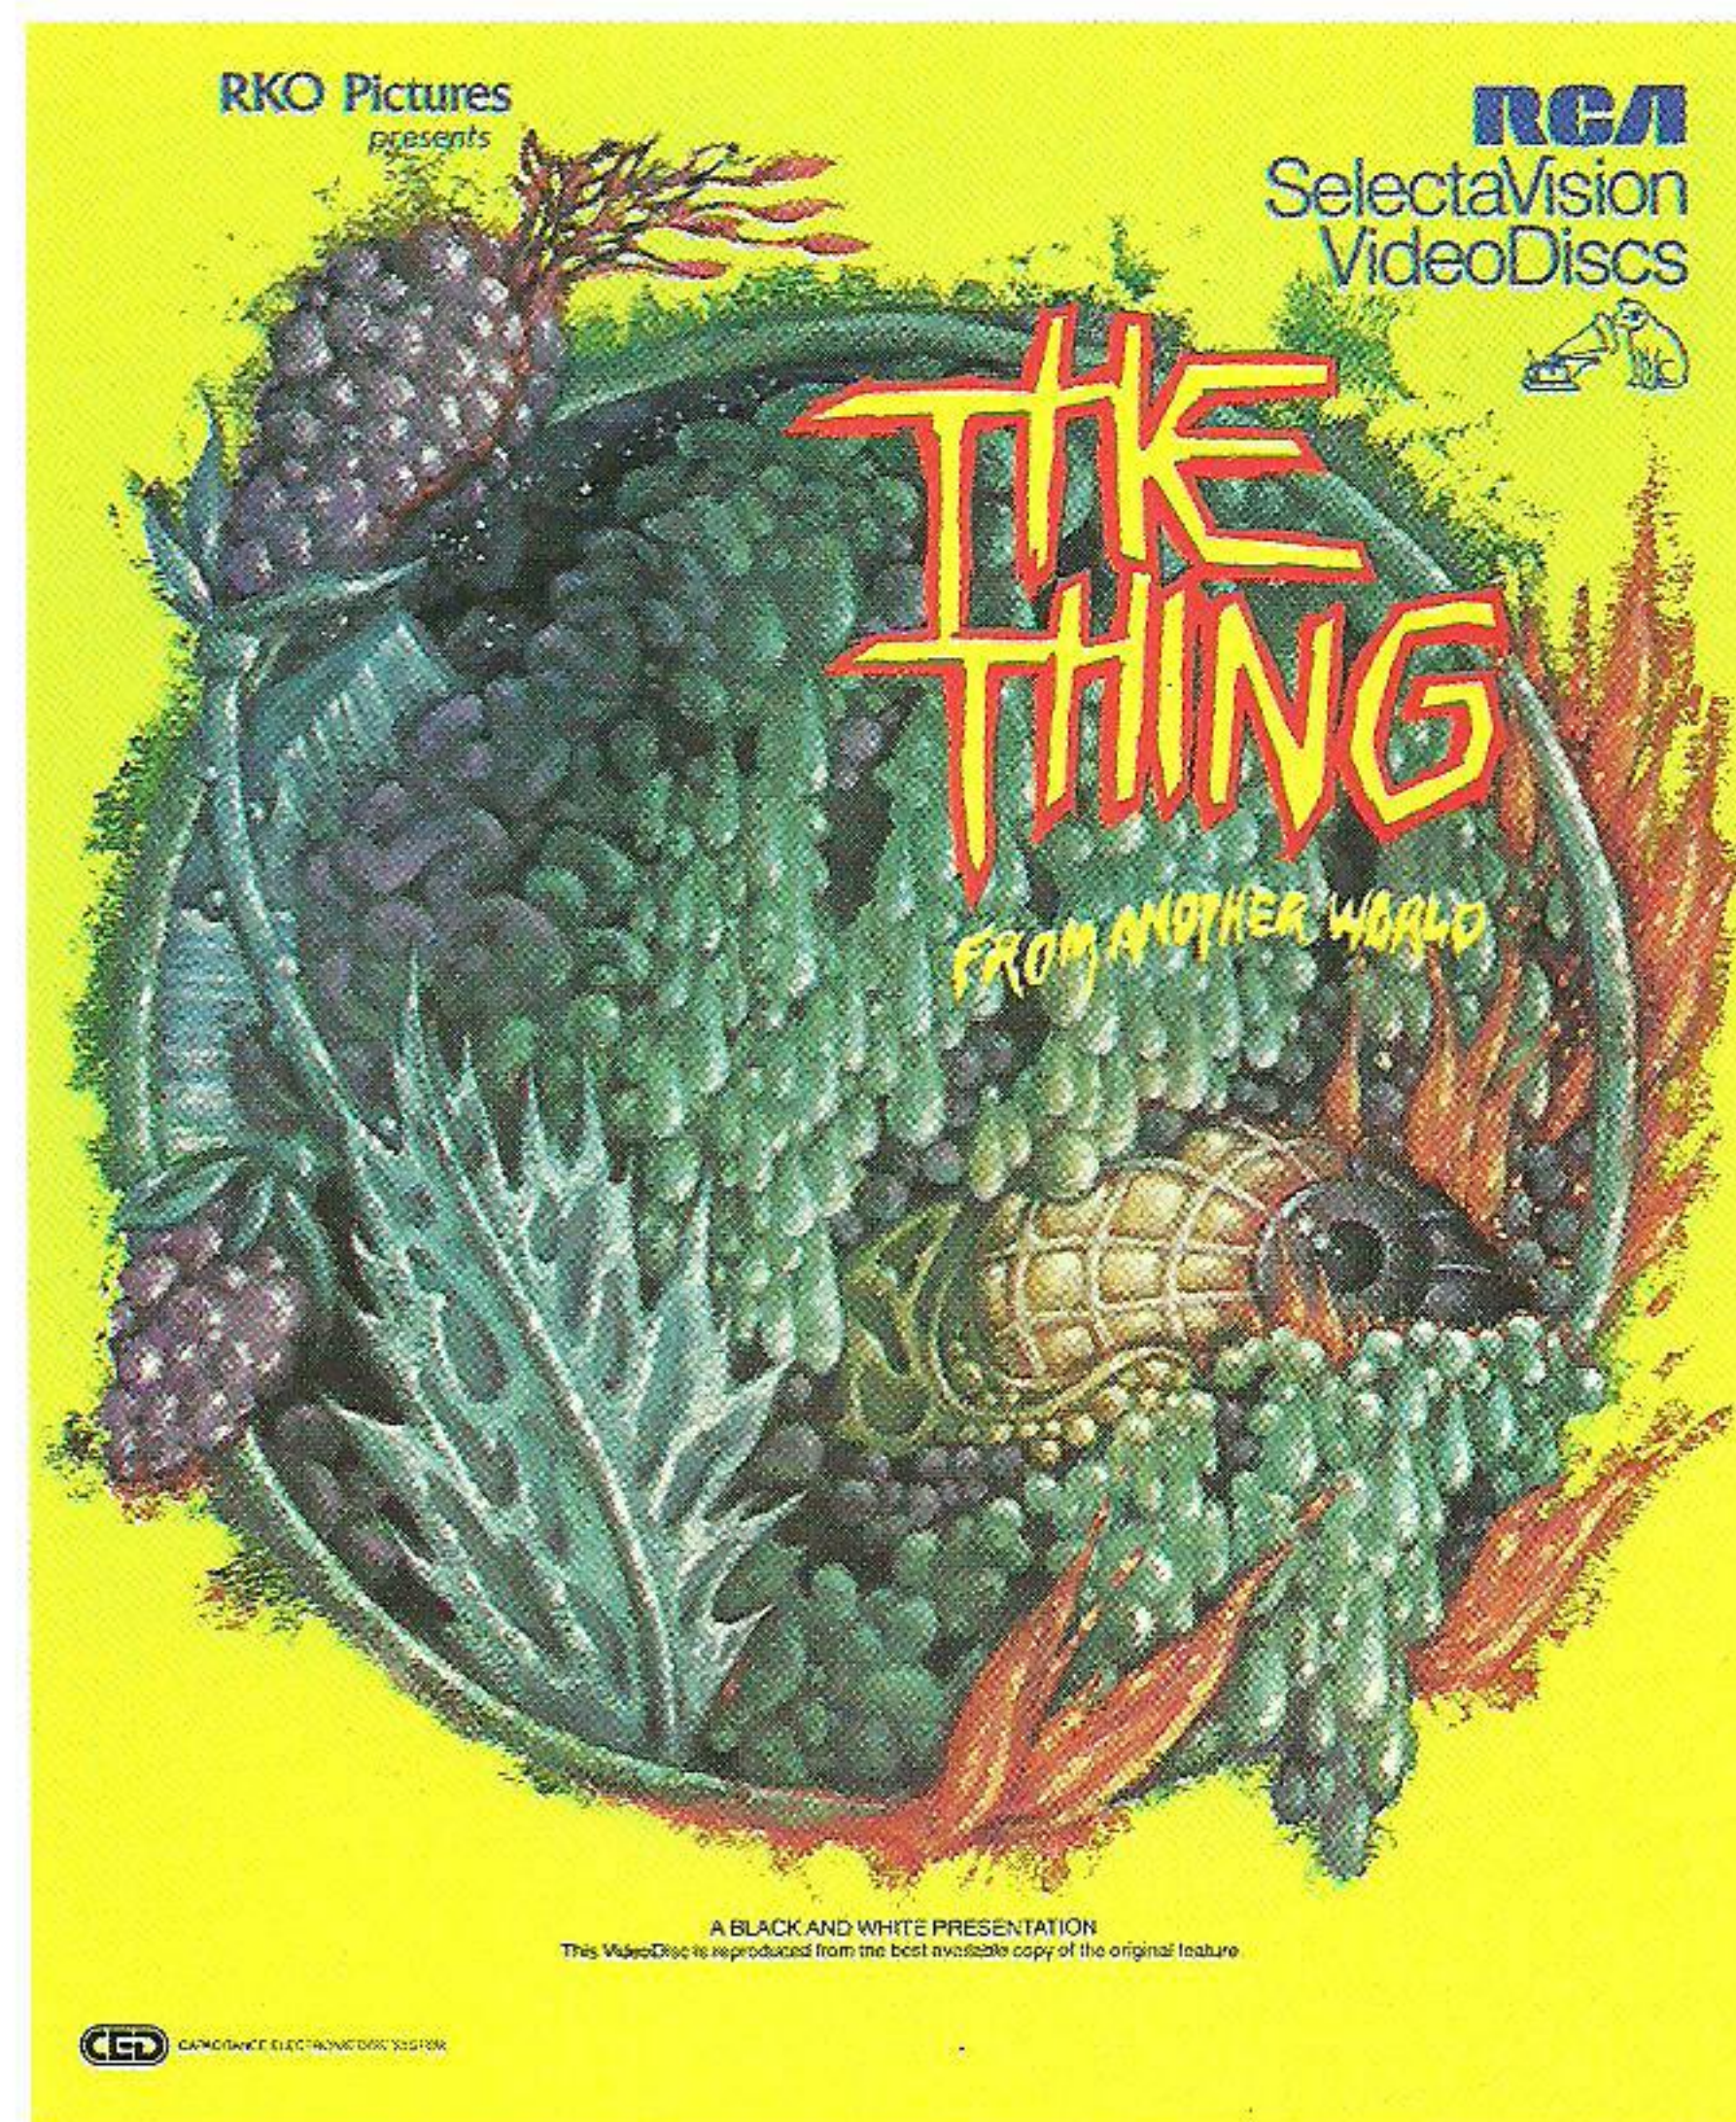

PRODUCED BY: Howard Hawks

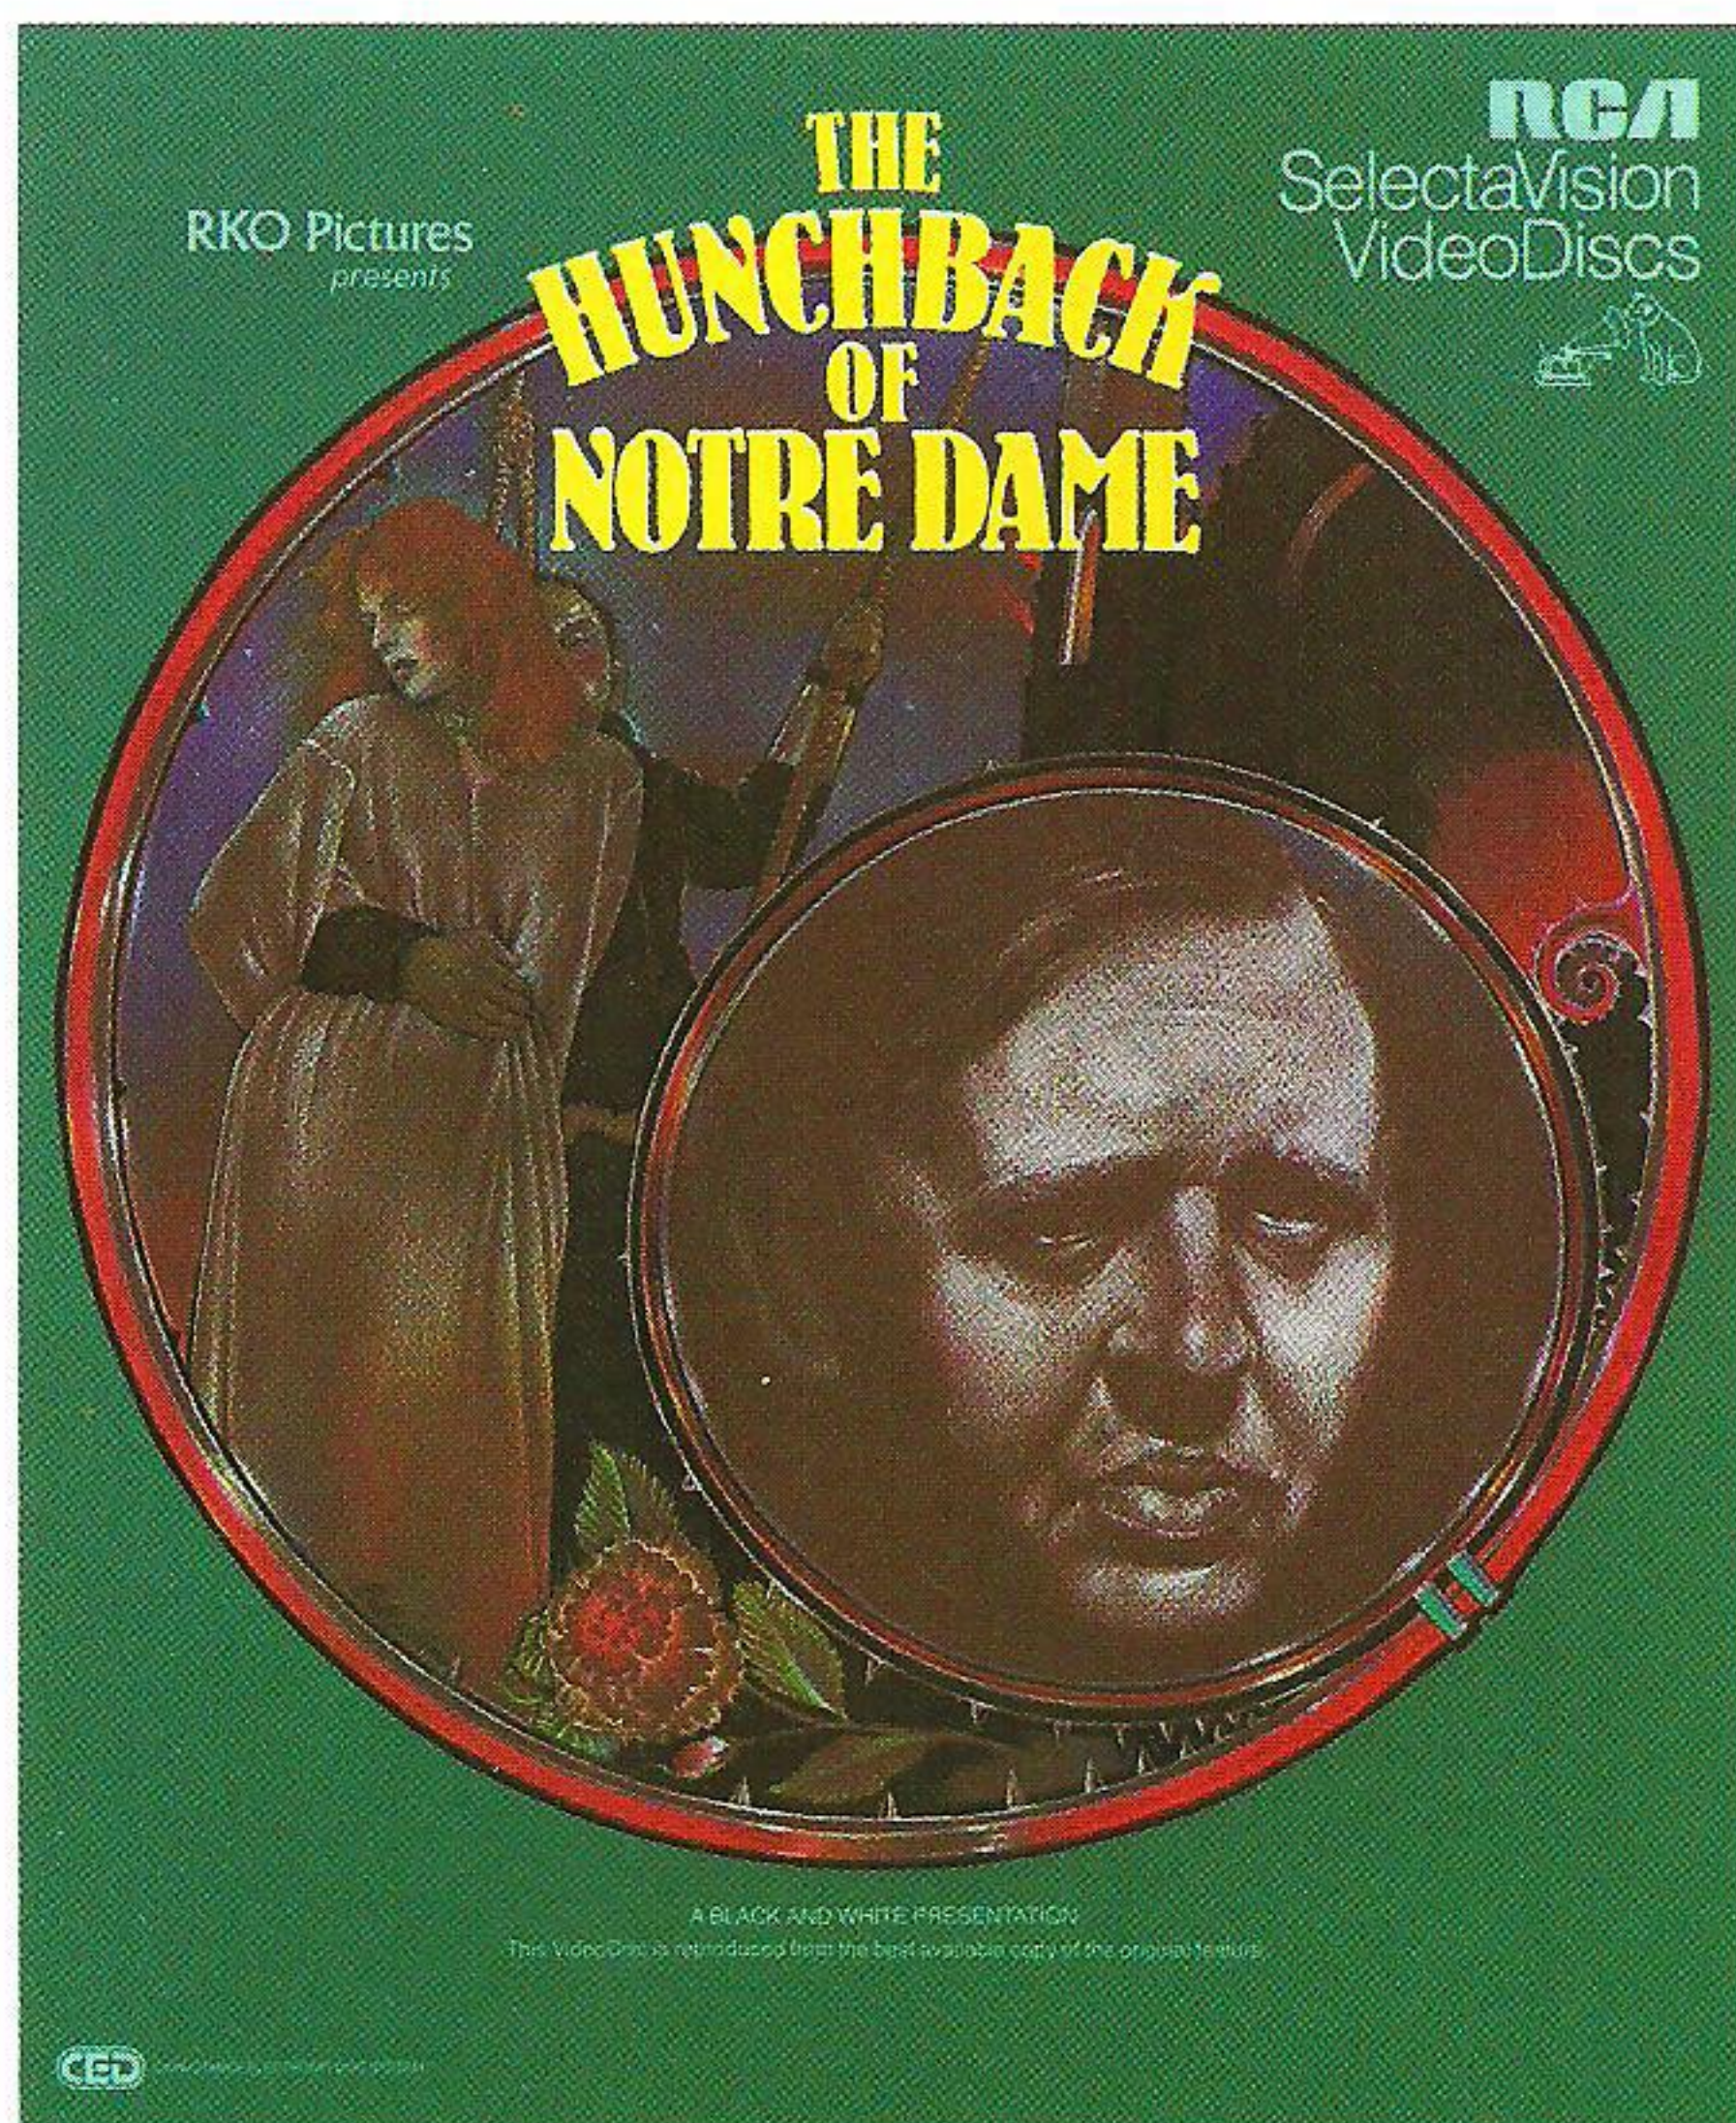

SCREENPLAY BY: Charles Lederer

DIRECTED BY: Christian Nyby

This superlative science fiction thriller is one of the high points in veteran producer Howard Hawks' career, with an excellent, rapid-fire script, a most entertaining romantic subplot, and an awesomely horrifying monster. The tale takes place in the Arctic wilderness, where members of a U.S. research station have discovered a flying saucer. The saucer is destroyed by accident, but the ice-encased creature at the controls is taken back to the snowbound outpost. Before they can decide what to do with it, The Thing (played by James Arness), thaws out, comes to life, and escapes into the night. The sled dogs manage to rip an arm off the creature, and by studying it, the scientists discover that The Thing is more vegetable than human, but lives on human blood. Captain Hendry (Kenneth Tobey), fails to stop the monster with fire, axes and guns, as The Thing begins to pick off the Americans one by one. Oscar-winning composer Dimitri Tiomkin's score makes a chilling accompaniment to this thriller.

PRODUCED BY: Pandro S. Berman

SCREENPLAY BY: Sonya Levien

DIRECTED BY: William Dieterle

This spectacular production provided Charles Laughton with one of his most memorable roles, that of the grotesquely misshapen bell ringer of the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The story concerns a beautiful gypsy girl, Esmeralda (Maureen O'Hara), who is wrongly accused of murder by Count Frollo, the real murderer and a member of King Louis XI's court. As she is standing on the scaffold awaiting execution, she is rescued by Quasimodo, the bell ringer, and he gives her sanctuary in the church. When the townspeople, stirred by the writings of a young poet, come to rescue Esmeralda, Quasimodo misunderstands their motives and pours molten lead from the towers of the church onto the crowd. When Frollo tries to take the girl, Quasimodo manages to kill him but finally loses the girl to the poet and is left alone with the stone gargoyles.

KING KONG

CAST: Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, Bruce Cabot

PRODUCED BY: Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack

This classic beauty-and-the-beast screen fantasy remains a marvel of technical achievement that, nearly half-a-century later, is unsurpassed. The plot concerns a moviemaker Carl Denham (Robert Armstrong), who travels by freighter to a remote tropical island to make an adventure film with would-be actress Ann Darrow (Fay Wray). First mate Jack Driscoll (Bruce Cabot) develops a romantic interest in Ann, but all human endeavors become overshadowed by the awesome presence of Kong, a 50-foot ape. When the local natives capture Ann to make her a sacrificial offering to the monster, the ship's crew gives chase, captures the ape and saves Ann. Denham then returns to New York City with his incredible discovery and plans to make a fortune displaying the giant ape to the public. But Kong escapes, grabs Ann, and makes his way to the top of the Empire State Building. Air Force fighters shoot Kong and he falls to his death, but not before gently placing Ann on a safe ledge.

DIRECTED BY: Robert Wise

This spectacular space adventure stars the original cast of the smash hit TV series. Admiral Kirk (William Shatner) is once again in command of his old starship, U.S.S. Enterprise, after replacing the captain, Commander Decker (Stephen Collins). Kirk's assignment is to intercept a huge malignant alien force that's on a collision course with Earth. After being reunited with his old colleague, Mr. Spock (Leonard Nimoy), Kirk steers the Enterprise into the clouds of energy surrounding the mysterious force. Spock learns that the alien is really a sophisticated machine named Vejur, and that it merely wants companionship. But the alien abducts a navigator, Ilia, from the Enterprise and substitutes an identical android to gather information. While Decker attempts to romantically gain the android's loyalty, the crew learns that Vejur is searching for a force it calls The Creator, which turns out to be earthlings.

CAST: Elvis Presley, James Douglas, Robert Ivers, Juliet Prowse, Leticia Roman, Sigrid Maier

PRODUCED BY: Hal B. Wallis

WRITTEN BY: Edmund Beloin and Henry Garson

DIRECTED BY: Norman Taurog

Elvis Presley plays Tulsa MacLean, a U.S. Army tank gunner who has formed a rock combo with two army buddies in Germany. They play pickup gigs during their off hours to earn money so they'll be able to open a small club when they return to the States. But his buddies offer Tulsa $300 immediately if he'll accept their challenge: spend the night with an elusive nightclub performer named Lili (Juliet Prowse). Tulsa accepts the challenge, but begins to feel uncomfortable about it when he falls in love with her. However, they do wind up spending a night together, quite innocently, and so Tulsa wins the bet. When Lili eventually learns of the wager, they have a brief falling out while rehearsing for a giant Armed Forces show. But love ultimately conquers all in the true romantic tradition of movie musicals, and this one ends with Elvis headlining a red, white and blue finale.

PRODUCED BY: Orson Welles

SCREENPLAY BY: Herman J. Mankiewicz and Orson Welles

DIRECTED BY: Orson Welles

Considered by many to be the finest American movie ever made, "Citizen Kane" remains one of the screen's towering achievements. The film begins with a newsreel that covers the highlights and historical events in Kane's life, and we follow the efforts of the newspapermen whose job it is to learn about the man behind the image. They learn about his early childhood in the country, his inheritance of great wealth, his climb to great power through newspaper publishing, and his retreat into seclusion at Xanadu, a palatial estate in Florida. We see the deterioration of his first marriage to the niece of a U.S. President, and his heartless exploitation of his mistress to make her a reigning opera star. The corruption of power has never been more brilliantly told in a motion picture.

PRODUCED BY: Charles K. Feldman

SCREENPLAY BY: Billy Wilder and George Axelrod

DIRECTED BY: Billy Wilder

This is the movie that features the unforgettable publicity shot of Marilyn Monroe standing on a subway grating with her skirt billowing over her head. Based on the Broadway smash, this Billy Wilder film tells the story of Richard Sherman (Tom Ewell) who lives the life of a summertime bachelor when his wife takes the kids to the seashore. When Marilyn Monroe rents the place upstairs, Richard acts out the fantasies of the ego-ridden male, and assumes that she is throwing herself at him with wanton abandon. While he daydreams of being a Casanova, Richard is interrupted by the janitor, the plumber (who has to extricate Marilyn's toe from a faucet), an old buddy, and a psychiatrist (who explains the meaning of the restlessness that can set in after seven years of marriage). Finally, when he suspects his old buddy of seeing his wife, jealousy takes over and Richard runs off to her.

MUSIC AND LYRICS BY: Jerry Herman

Based loosely on Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," the musical play "Hello, Dolly!" became one of the greatest box office draws ever. This lavish movie production, directed by veteran star/director Gene Kelly, won three Academy Awards. The story concerns rambunctious Dolly Levi (Barbra Streisand), a widow who matchmakes for other people. Dolly, however, would like to trade her living for a personal match with Horace Vandergelder (Walter Matthau), a wealthy hay-and-feed merchant from Yonkers. When Horace comes to New York, Dolly does all she can to prevent him from enjoying the company of Mrs. Molloy, whom he has his eye on for marriage. Horace finally begins to show an interest in Dolly as she makes her grand entrance into the Harmonia Gardens, with Louis Armstrong leading the orchestra in a spectacular scene.

This is the glittering comedy that provides the historic moment when the great Garbo laughs. Greta Garbo plays Nina (Ninotchka) Uakushova, a grim Russian envoy, who is sent to Paris to negotiate for the sale of the confiscated jewels of the Grand Duchess Swana. Negotiating for the Duchess is Count Leon D'Algout (Melvyn Douglas) who becomes fascinated with Nina. When Leon takes Nina to a restaurant and attempts to make her laugh, he is totally unsuccessful, until he becomes the butt of a joke by falling over a table. Nina laughs loud and long, and the ice is broken between them. When the Duchess manages to steal the jewels from an inebriated Nina, she offers to sell them only if Nina will leave Paris and Leon. Nina accepts, and Leon is shattered. But, back in Moscow, Commissar Razinin (Bela Lugosi) assigns Nina a job in Constantinople, to check on another deal. The real intention, however, is to reunite her with Leon.

SONGS FEATURED: I've Got a Feeling, Two of Us, Across the Universe, Get Back, The Long and Winding Road, Oh Darling, and others

Let It Be is a revealing, bittersweet, and sometimes playful motion picture that captures the group in one final coming-together for music's sake. The year is 1969. The Beatles, no longer just a rock group but a worldwide phenomenon, have begun to splinter; they no longer function as a group, but as four individuals reaching for separate goals. Well, then—let there be one more album recorded as an ensemble, and let there be a filmed record of the event. In the recording studio, and on the roof of Apple Records, John, Paul, George and Ringo perform such songs as "The Long and Winding Road," and "Get Back," with all the intensity and ingenuity that made The Beatles so special.

EAT TO THE BEAT

PRODUCED BY: Paul Flattery

DIRECTED BY: David Mallet

When punk music exploded on the pop scene during the last half of the 1970s, word spread of a new act that played new wave, touched briefly on disco, and finally became a driving force in rock's mainstream. That act was Blondie, led by Deborah Harry, an extraordinarily beautiful singer with platinum blonde hair. Blondie started out in the punk clubs of New York City, and they've gone on to great success in Europe, Australia and the Orient, with hit albums and sold-out live performances. Always a visually arresting act, Blondie took the next logical step with their LP, "Eat to the Beat," and produced this video version which not only includes all the music from that audio album, but adds four more numbers: "Heart of Glass" (their number one hit), "Picture This," "(I'm Always Touched by Your) Presence, Dear," and "Hanging on the Telephone." Blondie has come a long way in their relatively brief time together as a self-contained group, but by now they do more than just play rock and roll. They define it.

THE GRATEFUL DEAD

PRODUCED BY: Eddie Washington

EDITORIAL DIRECTOR: Jerry Garcia

LOCATION DIRECTOR: Leon Gast

When this movie opened in 1977, critic Robert Christgau wrote in The Village Voice: "In fifty years, when people want to know what a rock concert was like, they'll refer to this movie." In fact, no rock movie has ever as faithfully represented the feeling, the good vibes, the essence of the relationship between a band, its music and its audience. This filmed documentary shows the Grateful Dead live in concert, during three consecutive sold-out concerts they gave at San Francisco's Winterland in the fall of 1974. Opening with a dazzling animated sequence, the film goes on to look inside The Dead—from glimpses of their monumental stage preparations to the band's venerable hits that include "Truckin'," "Sugar Magnolia," "Johnnie B. Goode," "Goin' Down the Road," "Casey Jones" and "Playing in the Band". As The Washington Post puts it, here is "a movie to make 'Dead Heads' grateful."

DIRECTED BY: David Maysles, Albert Maysles, Charlotte Zwerin

When the Rolling Stones began their tour of America in 1969, the Maysles documented their musical journey on film. But no one could have foreseen all the events that make up "Gimme Shelter" in musical, dramatic and documentary terms. The film opens with the Stones in New York's Madison Square Garden, featuring Mick Jagger's galvanizing performance of "Sympathy for the Devil." That song proves to be a premonition of things to come, as we later witness the historic free concert at Altamont, California, where the Stones intended to celebrate the end of their tour. Instead of a blissful, '60s-style party of peace and love, the concert turned into a brutal, violent night of confusion and murder. With the notorious Hell's Angels as security guards, the Stones lose control of the crowd and a man is knifed to death. Altamont became a milestone in the history of a generation. The Jefferson Airplane, Ike and Tina Turner and Jerry Garcia also appear in the film.

ARTISTS: Elton John with Ray Cooper

PRODUCED BY: Allan McKeown and Ian La Frenais

WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY: Dick Clement and Ian La Frenais

Western musicians have been allowed behind the Iron Curtain before, but they've always been jazz or pop performers. But in the Spring of 1979, through the efforts of an inspired production team and the surprisingly receptive and cooperative attitude of Soviet authorities, rock and roller Elton John went to Leningrad and Moscow to boogie. You'll see Elton's impressions of his historic tour, with many interviews and behind-the-scenes moments between shows. But the highlights are truly the concerts themselves. Accompanied by drummer Ray Cooper, Elton thrills the enthusiastic crowds with hits like, "Your Song," "Daniel," "Benny And The Jets," "Rocket Man," "Crocodile Rock," "Saturday Night" and "Back In The U.S.S.R." Some of the Russian fans paid up to $300 for a ticket, and it's obvious here that Elton John gave them their money's worth, spectacularly.

CAST: Jimmy Cliff, Carl Bradshaw, Janet Bartley, Ras Daniel Hartman, Winston Stona, Basil Keane, Bobby Charlton

PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY: Perry Henzell

WRITTEN BY: Perry Henzell and Trevor D. Rhone

Spiced with the sensuous back beat of reggae music, "The Harder They Come" is a gritty, rough-and-tumble rock musical that springs from the folklore of modern Jamaica. There are fascinating glimpses of native Rastafarian life, and the difficulty this culture has in dealing with a modern and often corrupt society. The story follows young Ivan (Jimmy Cliff), a singer from the country who is lured to the big city (Kingston) by the dream of making a hit record. But he is ripped off by a record producer, forced to deal marijuana to keep from starving, and turns to a life of crime after accidentally killing a policeman. The music includes "Many Rivers to Cross," "Sitting in Limbo" and "You Can Get It If You Really Want," all sung by Cliff. Also included are Toots and the Maytals' versions of "Sweet and Dandy" and "Pressure Drop."

Baseball fever struck the entire country as the World Series of 1980 brought together one of the classic match-ups in its history. The Phillies had come into the series as heavy underdogs. After a season of discord, they faced a tremendous uphill battle to the division title. The Royals, on the other hand, were way ahead through the entire season.

The series was full of incredible efforts, including the most memorable by Tug McGraw, Mike Schmidt, Willie Aikens, and George Brett. But finally the series belonged to the Phillies, who brought the championship home. Indeed it was their first World Series win since 1915, and it was a series not to be forgotten.

SUPER BOWL XIV PITTSBURGH STEELERS vs. LOS ANGELES RAMS Plus Highlights of the '79 season.

This program begins with highlights from the entire NFL '79 season, then concentrates on the long, rocky road the Los Angeles Rams had to follow to get to the Super Bowl. No one could have guessed that the Rams, crippled with injuries and front-office in-fighting, would pull themselves up to the top. But the Rams rebounded, upset the Dallas Cowboys, and shut out the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to win the league championship with a 9-7 record. Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh Steelers, led by Terry Bradshaw, were toting up a phenomenal 14-4 record in their determination to achieve an unprecedented fourth Super Bowl victory. When the two teams finally met in Pasadena, quarterback Bradshaw brought the Steelers back from behind twice in the second half, and put his team on top to stay by hitting John Stallworth with a 73-yard touchdown pass. The game ended at 31-19, giving the Steelers a fourth Super Bowl victory.

Here are highlights from three of the most thrilling college football contests of all time. The 1946 Army-Navy game showcased the impressive talents of Army's fullback Doc Blanchard and halfback Glenn Davis, national heroes who were considered the deadliest one-two punch in college football. The 1963 Rose Bowl, between U.S.C.'s Trojans and the University of Wisconsin, also set a record for the all-time high-scoring total. The Trojans pulled it out, 42-37, but not without a furious fight from Wisconsin, sparked by quarterback Ron Vanderkelen. On November 28, 1964, the Trojans upset top-ranked Notre Dame 20-17, after trailing 17-0 at the half. This glorious victory features U.S.C. quarterback Craig Fertig's amazing 83-yard touchdown pass.

Kermit, that dapper "frog-about-town," narrates two delightful folk tales, featuring Jim Henson's talented Muppet gang. First, there's the warmly humorous musical story of Emmet Otter's Jugband Christmas, an unforgettable holiday visit to a woodland Yule that is short on cash but long on love. Then, Kermit spins a joyous down-home yarn about a worn-out but lovable Dixieland band traveling the Bayou country and entertaining for their supper in The Muppet Musicians of Bremen.

LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE

An NBC Production in association with
Ed Friendly Productions

EXECUTIVE PRODUCERS: Ed Friendly & Michael Landon

DIRECTED BY: Michael Landon

For millions of "Little House" fans, this pilot film is the keystone of the entire series. It begins the saga of the Ingalls family, the true story told in the books of Laura Ingalls Wilder, of her family's struggle to survive in the wilderness.

The story follows the Ingalls from their home in Wisconsin to their new homestead in Kansas. The territory is largely unsettled and game is plentiful, but the family faces dangers and hardships as they struggle to build a home and life in Kansas.

Sensitive and realistic, yet warm and humorous, Little House on the Prairie quickly became one of the few shows to be genuinely enjoyed by the entire family, and after seven years on the air it remains one of television's top-rated series.

WRITTEN BY: George Eckstein & Michael Zagor

DIRECTED BY: Don Medford

Now available for viewing for the first time since it aired in August 1967 is the now-legendary final episode of "The Fugitive." For more than four years "The Fugitive" was one of America's most successful television programs. Each week it followed Dr. Richard Kimble's (David Janssen) attempts to find the one-armed man he believed to be the killer of his wife—a crime for which Kimble himself had been convicted. Meanwhile, the law was always a step behind, at a moment's notice, ready to execute him.

In the final two-part episode the entire drama is resolved and the true killer is discovered.

PRODUCED BY: George Schaefer

PLAY WRITTEN BY: Thornton Wilder

DIRECTED BY: George Schaefer

The celebrated television production of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prizewinning play is a warm, evocative look at life in small town America in the days before World War I. Set in fabled Groves Corners, New Hampshire, the play's three acts are tied together by the Stage Manager (Hal Holbrook), who addresses the viewers directly and also assumes different parts in the story. The first act takes you on a tour of the town, introducing characters like Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs (Ned Beatty and Sada Thompson) and their All-American son George (Robby Benson). Act II concerns love and marriage between George and the girl next door, Emily (Glynnis O'Connor). The last act takes place among the dead in the small hilltop cemetery above the town after Emily dies in childbirth.

Based on the novel by Alexander Dumas

This is a lavish production of Alexander Dumas' classic tale of adventure, chivalry, courage, revenge and honor. Richard Chamberlain plays naval officer Edmond Dantes, whose career is devastated when he is framed as conspirator by envious fellow officers Danglars (Donald Pleasence) and Mondego (Tony Curtis). Unjustly arrested and prosecuted by the ambitious De Villefort (Louis Jourdan), Dantes is imprisoned on a grim island fortress, where he meets an older fellow prisoner, Abbe Faria (Trevor Howard). Before dying, Faria tells Dantes of a fabulous treasure hidden on the island of Monte Cristo. Dantes escapes, finds the treasure, and starts his revenge as the mysterious Count of Monte Cristo. He destroys Danglars, De Villefort and Mondego, bids farewell to his unfaithful wife, and rides off with Valentine.

Andrews, who leads two dozen Union spies behind enemy lines to steal a train out from under the noses of 4000 Confederate soldiers. While the Raiders proceed to destroy the tracks and railroad bridges in an attempt to cripple the South's military transport system, the Confederate conductor of the stolen train gives chase. Conductor Bill Fuller (Jeffrey Hunter) starts his pursuit on foot, then on a handcar, and finally secures a swift engine, which he must operate backwards. Finally, the Raiders are forced to abandon their mission, as some escape and others, including Andrews, are captured by the South. Though faced with death, Andrews grudgingly admires Fuller for his relentless, dogged pursuit.

HAMLET

CAST: Laurence Olivier, Jean Simmons, Felix Aylmer, Norman Wooland

A brilliant screen adaptation of Shakespeare's historical drama, this is considered by many people to be the best Shakespeare ever filmed. It's the famous tale of murder and intrigue, madness and despair, set in the solemn grandeur of the Court of Denmark. Laurence Olivier won an Academy Award for his outstanding performance as the Prince of Denmark (surprisingly, the only Oscar he ever won out of 10 nominations). Olivier directed this impressive production, as well, and it truly deserved the coveted Oscar for Best Picture of the Year. In the part of Ophelia is a young Jean Simmons, who was practically unknown outside Great Britain, and Stanley Holloway plays the gravedigger. The role of Hamlet is a long and impressive one, capable of many and varied interpretations. Olivier's stands with the best.

ROMEO & JULIET

CAST: Olivia Hussey, Leonard Whiting, Milo O'Shea, Michael York, John McEnery, Pat Heywood, Natasha Parry, Robert Stephens

PRODUCED BY:
Anthony Havelock-Allan and John Brabourne

SCREENPLAY BY:
Franco Brusati and Masolino D'Amico based on Shakespeare's play

DIRECTED BY: Franco Zeffirelli

Franco Zeffirelli's magnificent production demonstrates how exhilarating the experience of watching one of Shakespeare's plays can be. With Academy Award winning cinematography and costumes, Zeffirelli uses dazzling technique and exuberant energy to spin this timeless tale of history's most famous star-crossed lovers. In the leading roles are the youngest performers ever to play the two lovers professionally, Olivia Hussey (then only 15 years old) and Leonard Whiting (17). Zeffirelli made judicious cuts in dialogue to balance the action with the language, and innovatively translated many words into meaningful images.

CLARENCE DARROW

STARRING: Henry Fonda

PRODUCED BY: Mike Merrick and Don Gregory

ARTISTIC ADVISOR: John Houseman

DIRECTED BY: John Rich

Adapted by David W. Rintels from his play based on "Clarence Darrow for the Defense" by Irving Stone

In his tour-de-force performance as trial lawyer Clarence Darrow, Henry Fonda added another triumph to the long list of his dramatic character interpretations on screen, stage and TV. Adapted by David W. Rintels from his play based on "Clarence Darrow for the Defense" by Irving Stone, this is a bravura one-man portrait in the form of a mesmerizing monologue that at the same time peoples the stage with other characters of Darrow's time. There are the Twenties' thrill killers Leopold and Loeb who Darrow saved from the death penalty, as well as fundamentalist William Jennings Bryan, under withering examination by Darrow in excerpts from the famous Scopes Monkey Trial. Using the great lawyer's own words, Henry Fonda recreates an historical figure whose wit was sharpened by social conscience.

THE RED SHOES

CAST: Anton Walbrook, Marius Goring, Moira Shearer

WRITTEN, PRODUCED and DIRECTED BY: Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger

This is the most famous ballet movie ever filmed, and one of the most gorgeous motion pictures of all time. Based on Hans Christian Andersen's famous tale of the girl whose shoes danced away with her and would not stop, it is set against the colorful background of an international ballet company. Moira Shearer, one of Britain's then most promising ballerinas, plays the girl whose brilliant dancing brings her into a conflict between her love for the dance, and her love for a wonderful composer, played by Marius Goring. This inner conflict is beautifully and movingly depicted in the new ballet, in which the young girl dances the leading role. "The Red Shoes" won an Academy Award nomination for Best Picture and Best Screenplay, and won Oscars for the score and art direction.

AN EVENING WITH THE ROYAL BALLET

STARRING: Margot Fonteyn and Rudolf Nureyev

PRODUCED BY: Anthony Havelock-Allan

DIRECTED BY: Anthony Asquith and Anthony Havelock-Allan

When Rudolf Nureyev met Margot Fonteyn at London's Royal Ballet in 1962, it was the beginning of a new and triumphant phase in both of their careers. "An Evening with the Royal Ballet" gave millions their first look at the Fonteyn/Nureyev collaboration in an exciting cinematic context. The film opens with La Valse, in which the corps de ballet swirls through the choreography with a heady exuberance. Les Sylphides features Fonteyn and Nureyev in a moving and eloquent expression of the romantic style. The pas de deux from Le Corsaire has Nureyev soaring through space with total disregard for the laws of gravity, and Fonteyn matching him in a truly astonishing piece of dancing. The film closes with "Aurora's Wedding," the last act of Sleeping Beauty, a setting of the ballet which has not since been surpassed.

HENRY V

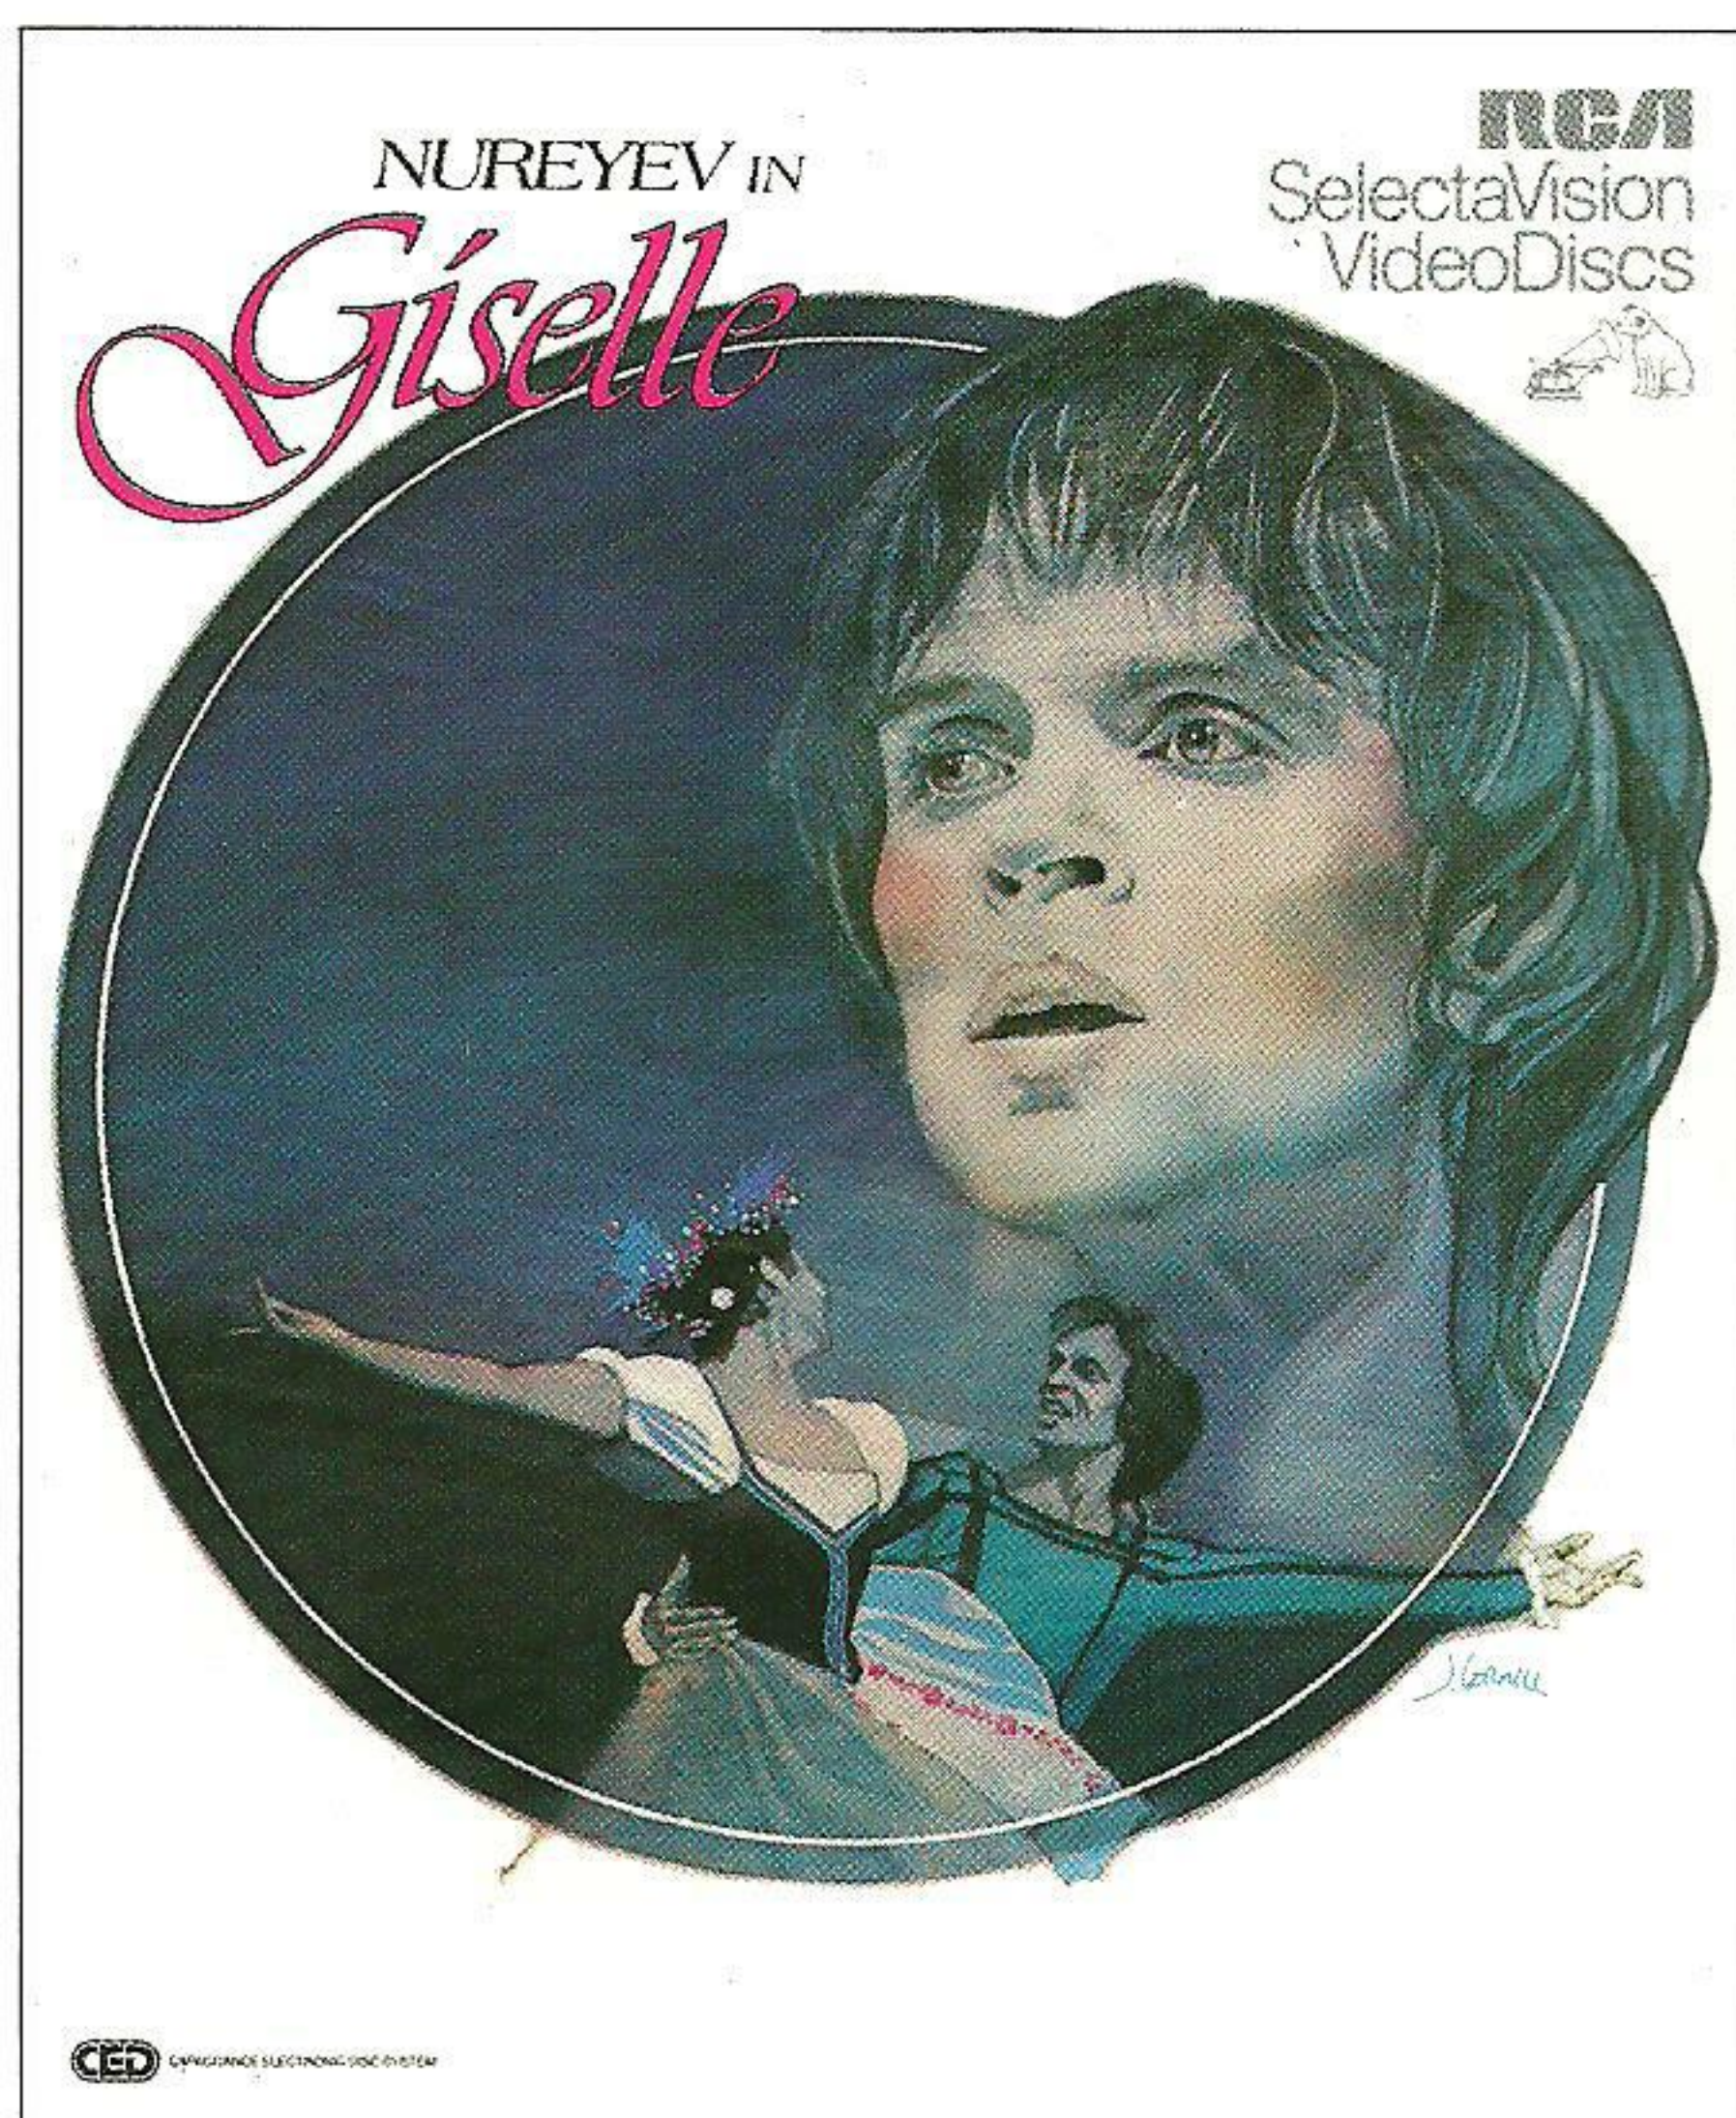

by William Shakespeare

STARRING: Laurence Olivier

PRODUCED and DIRECTED BY:
Laurence Olivier in close association with The Editor, Reginald Beck

When Laurence Olivier undertook the making of "Henry V" in 1943, English film production was at a standstill because of the war, and Britain was in need of a morale boost. Olivier obtained a military leave and made what was to be one of the all-time great film achievements. "Henry V" cost well over $2-million and took 18 months to complete, the most ambitious and costly movie done in Britain up to that time. The brilliance of Olivier's concept, the sweep and poetic eloquence of the production, and his robust performance in the title role, together with his masterful use of the screen, all have been hailed by critics and film historians. The film premiered in London in December 1944, and proved an immediate inspiration to war-weary Britishers. Olivier was given a special Academy Award for his outstanding accomplishment as producer, director and actor.

GISELLE

STARRING: Rudolf Nureyev,
Lynn Seymour, Monica Mason

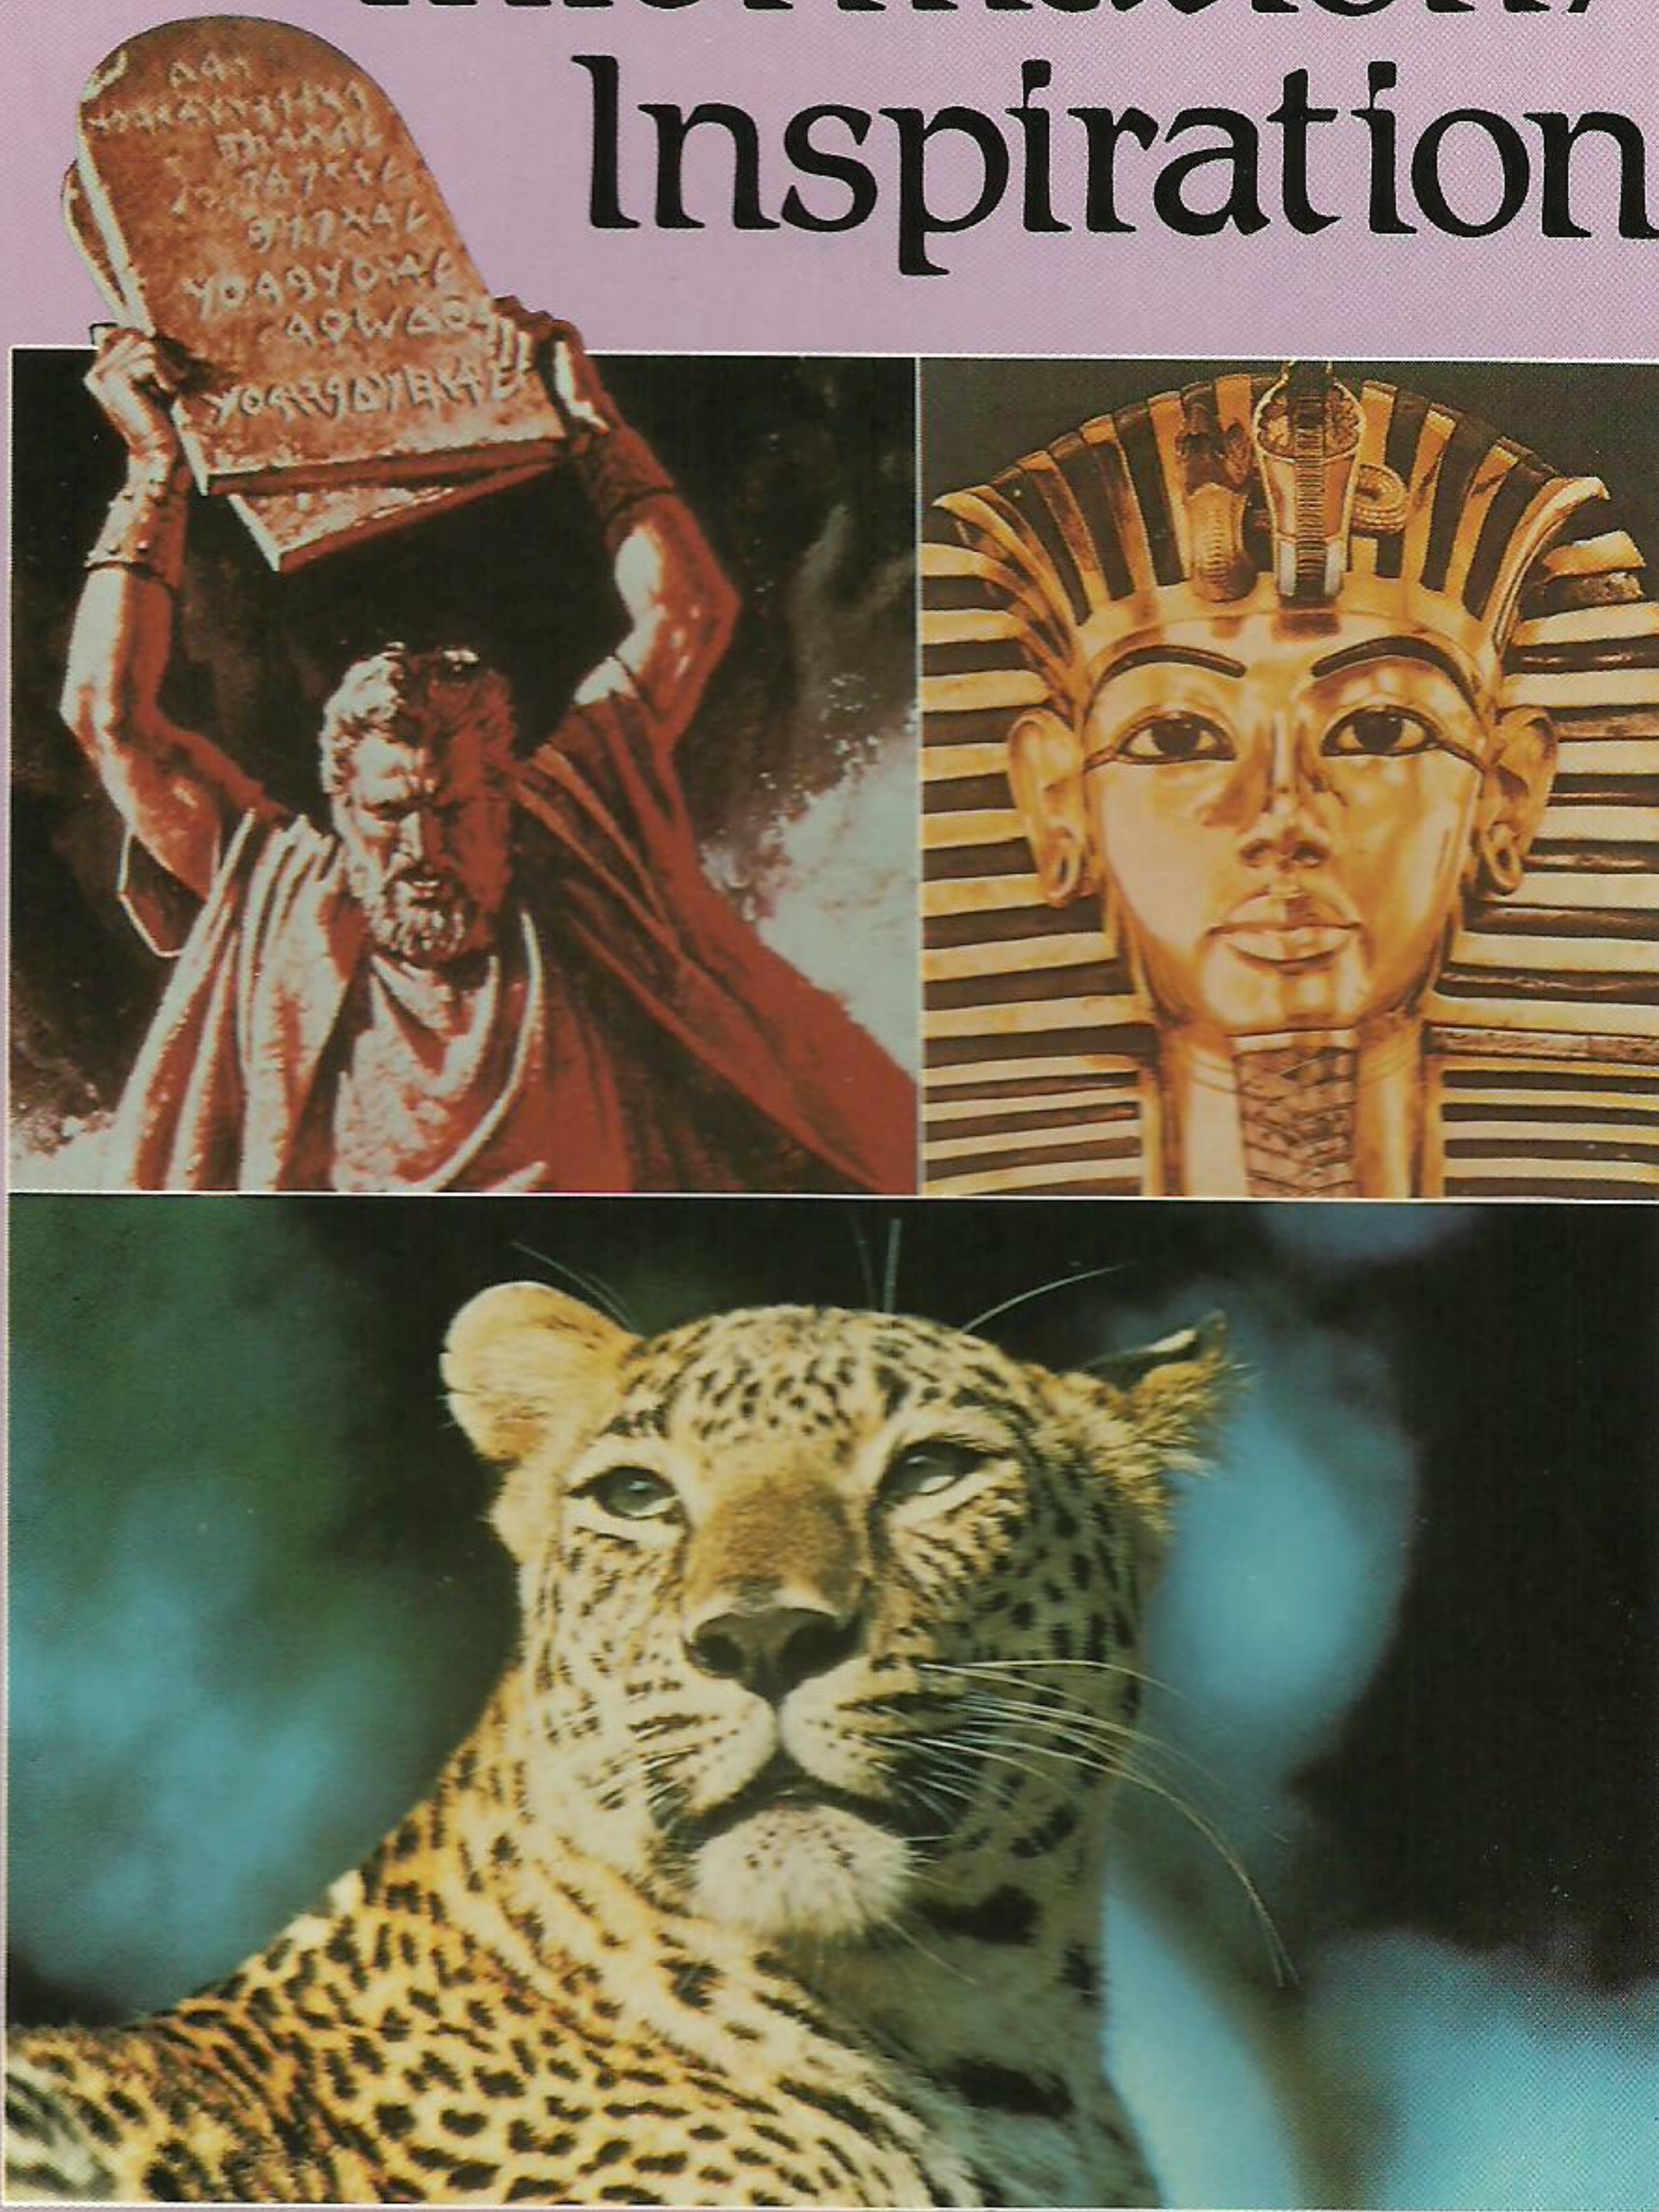

A SIR LEW GRADE PRESENTATION

PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY:
Stanley Dorfman

In ballet, one work stands out beyond all others as the supreme test of the ballerina's skill and that work is "Giselle." With its demanding choreography and its multi-faceted dramatic requirements, this ballet, taken from popular German legend, places unusually stringent demands upon the principals. The story concerns a peasant girl, Giselle (Seymour), in love with Count Albrecht (Nureyev), who has disguised himself as a villager. Hilarion, a local gamekeeper, also loves Giselle, but when spurned, reveals to her Albrecht's true identity. This causes Giselle to lose her mind and die. The second act takes place at Giselle's forest grave, where Albrecht and Hilarion are surrounded by spirits and forced to dance until they die. But Giselle's love sustains Albrecht and he lasts until morning, when the spirits, including Giselle, must return to their graves. Albrecht is left alone, but with the knowledge that Giselle has forgiven him.

JESUS OF NAZARETH

CAST INCLUDES: Robert Powell as Jesus, Olivia Hussey as Mary, Anne Bancroft, Ernest Borgnine, James Farentino, James Earl Jones, Tony Lo Bianco, Ian McShane, Laurence Olivier, Donald Pleasence, Anthony Quinn, Michael York

PRODUCED BY: Vincenzo Labella

SCREENPLAY BY: Anthony Burgess, Suso Cecchi D'Amico, Franco Zeffirelli

DIRECTED BY: Franco Zeffirelli

Filmed on location in Tunisia and Morocco, Franco Zeffirelli's epic production of the life of Jesus features a stellar international cast headed by Robert Powell in the title role. The story begins in Palestine when Mary and Joseph go to Bethlehem to answer the Roman-decreed census and Jesus is born. We follow his life through his meetings with John the Baptist and the Disciples and through his final agonizing death on the cross. The stunning score was composed by Academy Award-winner Maurice Jarre.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

CAST: Charlton Heston, Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget, John Derek

PRODUCED BY: Motion Picture Associates, Inc.

SCREENPLAY BY: Aeneas MacKenzie, Jessie L. Lasky, Jr., Jack Gariss, Fredric M. Frank

DIRECTED BY: Cecil B. DeMille

Charlton Heston plays Moses in this spectacular epic among epics. Cecil B. DeMille's incredibly elaborate production tells the story of Moses from his lowly birth, when he was cast adrift on a river, to the inspirational moment in history when he leads the Jewish people out of bondage in Egypt. Among the many special-effect splendors in this film are the Great Pyramids of Ramses, the Burning Bush, the Pagan rites of immoral heathens and, of course, the parting of the Red Sea. There has never been a master showman like Cecil B. DeMille, and this colossal motion picture set the standards for all the Biblical epics to follow.

WORLD OF WILDLIFE, VOLUME 1
THE INCREDIBLE FLIGHT
OF THE SNOW GEESSE

NARRATED BY: Glen Campbell

PRODUCED BY: Aubrey Buxton

WRITTEN BY: Colin Willock

LEOPARD OF THE WILD

NARRATED BY: David Niven

WRITTEN AND PRODUCED BY: Colin Willock

The painstaking work of the naturalist-photographer is on display here on two wonderful programs that offer privileged views of two great natural wonders. "The Incredible Flight of the Snow Geese," narrated by Glen Campbell, is an inspiring look at the majestic geese that migrate every year from the Canadian Arctic to the plains of Texas. The lovely theme song, "Fly High and Free," performed by Mr. Campbell, is a fitting tribute to the soaring spirit of the snow goose. "Leopard of the Wild" is the "Born Free"-type story of Harriet, a leopard from the jungles of Northern India. Naturalist-photographer Dieter Plage chronicles the touching story of Harriet's upbringing in a wildlife refuge, cared for from birth by Billie Arjan Singh. When Harriet is fully grown, Billie has to set her free to fend for herself and her cubs.

THE UNDERSEA WORLD OF
JACQUES COUSTEAU—VOLUME 1

SIDE 1: Sharks

SIDE 2: The Singing Whale

NARRATED BY: Rod Serling

PRODUCED BY: Jacques Cousteau,
Alan Landsburg, Jack Kaufman,
Marshall Flaum

WRITTEN BY: Richard Shoppelry and
Andy White

DIRECTED BY: Philippe Cousteau

Come with Jacques Cousteau on two fascinating and exciting expeditions to study animal life under the sea. "Sharks" features Cousteau and his crew doing behavioral studies of "the perfect killer" in the Red Sea, the Indian Ocean and the Gulf of Aden. The bravery of Cousteau's crew is apparent as they go about their underwater work. A more gentle, though no less impressive, note is struck with "The Singing Whale," which looks at the habits of the playful humpback whale. As Philippe Cousteau remarked at the time, "I think that those were the most beautiful hours that I have ever spent in the water in my whole life."

VICTORY AT SEA

PRODUCED BY: Henry Salomon

WRITTEN BY: Henry Salomon and Richard Hanser

ORIGINAL MUSIC SCORE BY:
Richard Rodgers

NARRATED BY: Alexander Scourby

This feature-length theatrical version of the Emmy-Award winning TV series, "Victory At Sea," is an emotionally powerful document of World War II. It depicts the human drama as it was actually lived between the Axis ascendancy in 1939 and the great homecoming of America's fighting men in 1945. In between were the faces of the Marines at Guadalcanal and Saipan in the Pacific, the famed Battle of Midway, holocausts in the Mediterranean and North Atlantic Seas, the D-Day assault on Normandy beaches, Japanese Kamikaze attack pilots in suicidal missions against Allied ships, and the memorable flag-raising at Iwo Jima. With a poetic commentary spoken by Alexander Scourby, and a magnificent, lyrical score composed by Richard Rodgers, this series won the prestigious George Foster Peabody Award and changed the face of the TV documentary.

SIDE 1: TUT: THE BOY KING

NARRATED BY: Orson Welles

SIDE 2: THE LOUVRE

NARRATED BY: Charles Boyer

Originally presented on NBC-TV, both of these documentaries offer fascinating glimpses of two completely different worlds of art. "Tut, the Boy King" focuses on the dazzling array of art treasures that the 9-year-old Tutankhamen lived with and, 10 years later, was buried with. Narrated by distinguished actor Orson Welles, this intriguing program provides a rare cultural treat. Then, in his unique urbane manner, Charles Boyer takes you on an intimate tour of "The Louvre." Winner of six Emmy Awards, this program celebrates the famous Paris art museum not only for its great art collection but even more for the splendid building itself. But even without its masterpieces, the Louvre, with its rich history and stunning architecture, would still be a treasured national landmark.

DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK CARING FOR YOUR NEWBORN

PRODUCED BY: Joyce Smith

EXECUTIVE PRODUCER/DIRECTOR:
Gregory Jackson

"Caring for Your Newborn" is not meant to be an encyclopedia of pediatric medicine. Rather, it's Dr. Spock sharing 50 years of his experience in the everyday problems of raising a baby. It's all recorded in the nurseries, the kitchens, and the living rooms where babies are cared for in the real world. (This two-hour VideoDisc was taped in the small Arkansas town where the doctor now lives.) Dr. Spock's method of teaching, often is through listening, as parents demonstrate what they've learned by experience. In one scene, a young nursing mother shows the others in the group, step by step, how to breast feed an infant. Spock is convinced that loving parents naturally do the right thing, and exhorts the mothers to trust their own instincts. He has been called "permissive," to which he replies, "Nonsense. Love and respect your child, but ask for respect in return. A tyrannical child is an unhappy child." This unique program lets Dr. Spock share his considerable knowledge with parents like you, in your own home.

JULIA CHILD
THE FRENCH CHEF—VOLUME 1

SIDE 1: To Roast a Chicken
Lasagna a la Francaise

SIDE 2: Strawberry Soufflé for Dessert
Mousse au Chocolat

PRODUCED BY: Ruth Lockwood

DIRECTED BY: David B. Atwood and
Russell Fortier

Julia Child's televised presentations of her French cooking have helped make good food a delightful obsession for many Americans. She not only makes it possible for the ordinary cook to recreate her delicious meals, but she instructs in such a charming style that her programs are entertaining even if you never intend to lift a pot. Here, she prepares both basic and delectable dishes. Her roast chicken is the essence of simplicity: nothing but butter, herbs and salt. Her lasagna employs Italian seasoning, garlic and vermouth to create a truly international triumph: Lasagna a la Francaise. The Strawberry Soufflé is a lovely puff made of little more than fruit, sugar and egg whites. Finally, Julia does Mousse au Chocolat and one taste of this is worth a thousand words—or just one: mmmmm!

AS WE GROW

Scholastic's Early Childhood Series

PRODUCED BY: George Mully

DIRECTED BY: Hal Rein

Includes a Study Guide

This is a series of 12 segments that explore the fascinating world of the young child in ways that will stimulate your child and promote his or her curiosity. With engaging photographs, music and dialogue, the series shows youngsters building cardboard cities, questioning the origin of living things, and imitating the skills of their parents. You'll be able to help your child make exciting discoveries by engaging him or her in conversations about the themes of the segments. To assist in this process, you can stop the disc along the way to make comparisons between segments. Along with the study guide, this disc, and your participation, your child will learn to listen, watch and learn from others. More importantly, your child will be inspired to explore creatively his or her own world.
